NMMA Unveils New House on Mango Street Exhibit

THE HOUSE ON MANGO ST

The House on Mango Street Comes to Life

By: Ashmar Mandou

After years in the making, The National Museum of Mexican Art (NMMA) will finally unveil its latest and much anticipated exhibition, The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community on April 17th.

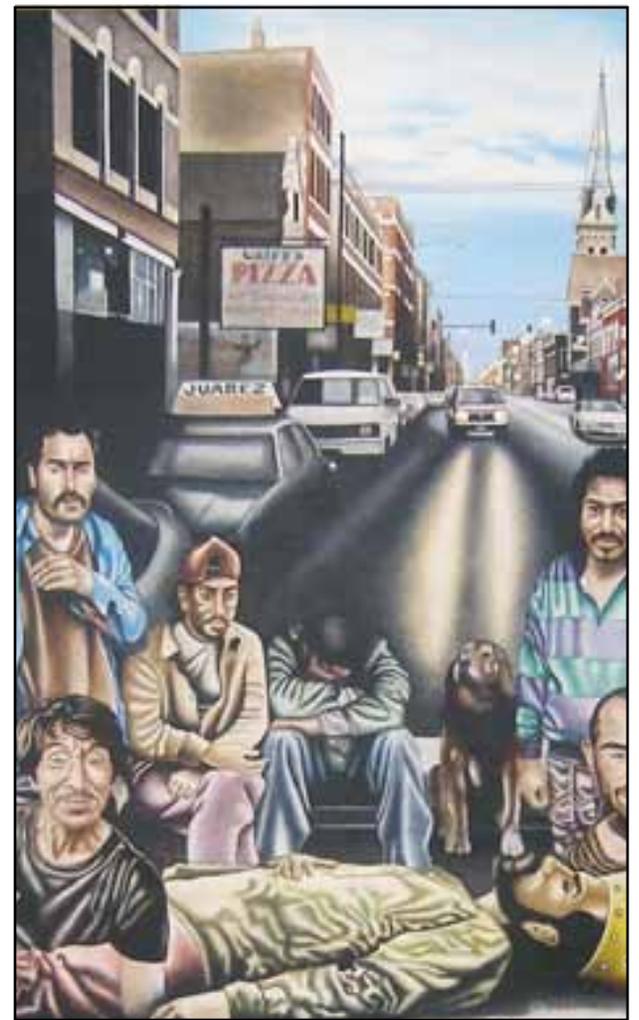

The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community delves deeper into the acclaimed novel by Sandra Cisneros and how her story continues to affect communities across the country, especially here in Chicago more than 30 years later when she first penned the book.

“I think, for me the most nerve wracking part will be watching Sandra Cisneros’s reaction when she sees the exhibition for the first time on Thursday,” said Chief Curator in charge of the exhibition Cesareo Moreno. “We collected artwork from various artists who have been influenced by House on Mango Street and artists whose work touches on the many themes in the book.”

The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community addresses themes including identity, community, family, and hope, universal themes Moreno believes everyone, not just the Latino community will relate to. “Yes, we are a museum that houses the works of Mexican and Mexican-American artists, however this particular exhibit is designed to transcend cultural barrier and have people discover that we all have commonalities,” said Moreno. The new exhibit houses 75 distinct works of art and site-specific installations that represents the artist’s interpretation of one of the themes in the novel. The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community is set to open to the general public on Friday, April 17th. NMMA, located in Chicago at 1852 W. 19th Street, will also host a special exhibition preview on Thursday, April 16th.

Exhibition Preview and Mango Street Suite Music inspired by The House on Mango Street Thursday, April 16, 6pm: The NMMA will present an exclusive performance of Reginald Robinson’s original musical compositions together with Sandra Cisneros reading the selections from The House on Mango Street that inspired them. The House of Mango Street Llega a la Vida

Por: Ashmar Mandou

Después de años de trabajo, el Museo Nacional de Arte Mexicano (NMMA) finalmente revelará su última y tan anticipada exhibición, The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community el 17 de abril.

The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community profundiza en la aclamada novela de Sandra Cisneros y como sus historias continúan afectando a las comunidades del país, especialmente aquí en Chicago, más de 30 años más tarde, cuando escribió el libro. "Creo que para mí, la parte más desesperante será ver la reacción de Sandra Cisneros cuando vea la exhibición por primera vez el jueves", dijo el Jefe Conservador a cargo de la exhibición, Cesáreo Moreno. "Coleccionamos obras de arte de varios artistas que han sido influenciados por House on Mango Street y artistas cuya obra toca muchos temas del libro".

The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret

Community toca temas que incluyen identidad, comunidad, familia y esperanza, temas universales con los que Moreno cree que todos, no solo la comunidad latina se verán relacionados. "Si, somos un museo que alberga obras de artistas mexicanos y méxicoamericanos, sin embargo, esta exhibición en particular está diseñada para trascender la barrera cultural y hacer que la gente descubra que todos tenemos cosas en común, dijo Moreno. La nueva exhibición tiene 75 obras de arte diferentes e instalaciones en sitios específicos que representan la interpretación del artista de uno de los temas de la novela. The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community está programada para abrir para el público en general el viernes, 17 de abril. NMMA, localizado en Chicago en el 1852 W. de la calle 19 ofrecerá también la preliminar de una exhibición especial el jueves, 16 de abril.

Preliminar de Exhibición y Mango Street Suite Musica Inspirada por The House on Mango Street el jueves, 16 de abril, 6 p.m.: NMMA presentará una actuación exclusiva de composiciones de música original de Reginald Robinson, junto con Sandra Cisneros leyendo las selecciones de The House on Mango Street que las inspiró. Un preliminar de The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community comenzará a las 6 p.m. y la autografía del libro a las 8 p.m. seguida por la actuación de Mango Street Suite. Se ofrecerá una comida y la disponibilidad es limitada. El costo de este evento es de $50 por persona.

Recepción de Apertura, Viernes, 17 de abril, 6 p.m.:

La autora Sandra Cisneros asistirá a la recepción de apertura de la nueva exhibición, The House on Mango Street: Artists Interpret Community. Sandra Cisneros estará presente en esta velada y autografiará libros para los invitados.

Southeast Community Demands Investigation Over 10th Ward Election

By: Ashmar Mandou

Protestors held a rally, led by Anthony Martinez from RISE Southeast Chicago community group, on April 11th to address the issues of retaliation, intimidation, and corruption following the results of the 10th ward election on 106th and Avenue M.

“The activities that have been going on the last 16 years and recently the violent crimes and threats against people who voted against the current alderman are unacceptable.

We are calling for an end to this and an investigation into any reports of rigging the results of the election through intimidation or fraud,” said Martinez.

Residents demanded an investigation and end to these practices. Residents demanded a full investigation into any attempts at voter intimidation or fraud, along with demands that officials look into allegations of corrupt practices in the ward. Organizers are trying to gather attention to these threats out of fear someone will be hurt as a result of retaliation.

Another member of RISE said, “We will stand up against these social injustices. Our community needs it, our neighbors want it, and our children demand it! We will not let people in our community be intimidated, threatened or hurt!”

La Comunidad de Southeast Pide una Investigación en las Elecciones del Distrito 10

Por: Ashmar Mandou

El 11 de abril se llevó a cabo manifestación, encabezada por Anthony Martínez, del grupo comunitario RISE Southeast Chicago, para atender problemas de represalias, intimidación y corrupción, tras los resultados de las elecciones del distrito 10 en 106 y Ave. M.

“Los sucesos de los últimos 16 años y recientemente los crímenes violentos y amenazas contra la gente que votó contra el actual concejal, son inaceptables. Pedimos fin a esto y una investigación sobre cualquier reporte de manipulación de los resultados de las elecciones por medio de la intimidación o el fraude”, dijo Martínez.

De acuerdo a Martínez, después de las amenazas de violencia y acoso hacia los votantes en las elecciones del distrito 10, los residentes decidieron organizarse para pedir justicia. Con letreros destrozados, ventanillas de auto rotas, y amenazas por Facebook, la comunidad pidió una investigación y un fin a estas prácticas. Los residentes pidieron una investigación completa sobre cualquier intento de intimidación o fraude al votante, junto con las demandas de que los funcionarios investiguen los alegatos y prácticas de corrupción en el distrito. Los organizadores están tratando de llamar la atención hacia estas amenazas por miedo de que alguien resulte lastimado como resultado de las represalias.

Otro miembro de RISE dijo, “Lucharemos contra estas injusticias sociales. Nuestra comunidad lo necesita, nuestros vecinos lo quieren y nuestros niños lo exigen! No dejaremos que la gente de nuestra comunidad sea intimidada, amenazada o lastimada!”

Honey Makes the Medicine Go Down

By: Ashmar Mandou

The winter season may officially be over in Chicago, but as we all have come to learn early on that does not mean we will not experience chilly temperatures in upcoming months. So with that in mind, TV Personality and Holistic Practitioner Nataly Valenzuela joined forces with the National Honey Board to concoct a plethora of healthy recipes to soothe any cold-like symptom with one common ingredient, honey.

"I am working with the National Honey Board and I have to say Chicago is a very cold place," laughed Valenzuela who was in town last week to promote her latest recipes on behalf of the National Honey Board. "With the change in season the National Honey Board decided to do a national campaign to ease the cold symptoms, like the cough. You know, people have jobs to go to and things to do... the last thing they need is to get sick. So I teamed up with the National Honey Board to offer up some delicious candy-like remedies without all the chemicals and preservatives. What better way to do that than by using honey as the key ingredient."

From using ingredients you most likely already have in your kitchen pantry, like coconut oil, mint, ginger, lemon, cayenne powder, and perhaps hibiscus, Valenzuela made sure each ingredient used had several medicinal properties. "We all know the benefits of using honey, but what most people do not realize is that coconut oil also holds hundreds of properties from whitening your teeth, to soothing a scrape. The ingredients I mixed with the honey are all natural products that work as your cough suppressant. It is better than getting your medicine at the drug store." Valenzuela kindly shared her honey-based recipes with Lawndale Bilingual Newspaper. To view the recipes and how to create them, visit www.lawndalenews.com. La Miel Hace Menos Necesarias las Medicinas

La temporada de invierno puede oficialmente haber terminado en Chicago, pero como todos sabemos, eso no significa que no tendremos temperaturas frías en los meses por venir. Con eso en mente, la personalidad de TV y Practicante Holística Nataly Valenzuela, une sus fuerzas a National Honey Board para confeccionar una plétora de recetas saludables para aliviar cualquier síntoma de resfriado con un ingrediente común, la miel.

“Estoy trabajando con National Honey Board y tengo que decir que Chicago es un lugar muy frío”, rio Valenzuela, quien estuvo en Chicago la semana pasada para promover sus últimas recetas a nombre de National Honey Board. “Con el cambio de estación, National Honey Board decidió hacer una campaña nacional para aliviar los síntomas del resfriado, como la tos. Como sabemos, la gente tiene empleos a los que ir y cosas que hacer... lo último que necesitan es enfermarse. Por lo tanto me uní a National Honey Board para ofrecer algunos deliciosos remedios sin toda esa química y preservativos que tienen los medicamentos. Que mejor manera de hacerlo que utilizando miel como ingrediente principal”.

Utilizando ingredientes que probablemente usted tenga ya en su despensa, como aceite de coco, menta, jengibre, limón, cayena en polvo y tal vez hibisco, Valenzuela garantiza que cada ingrediente utilizado tiene varias propiedades medicinales. “Todos sabemos los beneficios de utilizar la miel, pero lo que la mayoría de personas no se dan cuenta es que el aceite de coco tiene cientos de propiedades, desde blanquear los dientes hasta aliviar un raspón. Los ingredientes que mezclé con la miel son todos productos naturales que funcionan para aliviar la tos. Es mejor que conseguir su medicina en la farmacia”. Valenzuela amablemente compartió sus recetas hechas a base de miel con el Lawndale Bilingual Newspaper. Para ver las recetas y como crearlas, visite www.lawndalenews.com. Para más información sobre National Honey Board, visite www.mielpura.org.

Man charged Sunday in Death of 18-month old Toddler

On Thursday April 9, 2015 the Cicero Police and Fire Dept. responded to a call of an unresponsive child in a home in the 1600 block of 49th Court. Edwin Eli O'Reilly, 18 months old, was rushed to MacNeal Hospital where the child succumbed to injuries and was pronounced deceased.

Cicero Police Detectives learned through a tireless investigative process that the child was in the care of 23 year old defendant, Martin Alvarado Jr. of the 1600 block of 49th Ct. Alvarado Jr. was identified as the boyfriend of the victim's mother.

During the time the child was in the care and custody of defendant Alvarado Jr., the child was crying and suffered from loose bowel movements, investigators learned. As the defendant was in the process of changing the young victim's diapers, the child urinated on Alvarado Jr. This enraged the defendant and Alvarado Jr., who struck the baby multiple times about the body causing the child's death. During interviews with Cicero Police through Sunday, Alvarado Jr. made incriminating statements and gave a video-taped confession of his actions that caused the death of the child.

Police charged Martin

Alvarado Jr., 23, was subsequently charged with First Degree Murder. On Monday, April 13th a judge denied bond for Alvarado Jr., when he appeared at Bond Court in Maywood. A new hearing date has been set for Tuesday, April 28th at Maywood Court House.

Researchers Find Eating Out and Hypertension Are Linked

Dining away from home isn't just bad for your waistline; it may also be hard on your heart and your health. Recent research shows that consuming restaurant meals is connected with an increased risk of high blood pressure that can lead to stroke, an aneurysm (swelling in the blood vessels or heart chamber) and a possible heart attack, Medical News Today reports.

For the study, several researchers surveyed 501 young adult students, ages 18 to 40, at a university in Singapore. Scientists asked the participants questions about blood pressure, body mass index (BMI, Researchers found that about 27 percent of the students surveyed exhibited preliminary signs of hypertension. A further breakdown of the data along gender lines showed 49 percent of male participants and 9 percent of female subjects had pre-hypertension. Thirty-eight percent of the students surveyed said they ate more than 12 meals away from home each week.

In addition, findings showed that eating just one extra meal out each week was associated with a 6 percent higher risk of pre-hypertension. Based on the results, study authors suggested that doctors advise young adults, particularly young men, to modify their eating habits. (Translation: Watch calorie, saturated fat and salt intake.) The researchers added that physicians should inform young men and women about their risk of pre-hypertension.
