El martes por la tarde, frente a miles de simpatizantes en Aon Grand Ballroom en el Navy Pier, la estudiante de Northside College Prep School, Eve Houser, de 17 años, del barrio de Austin, fue nombrada la Joven del Año. “La competencia Joven del Año realmente destaca lo mejor y más brillante de los miembros juveniles del Club”, dijo Bart McCartin, Vicepresidente de la Mesa Directiva de los Clubs Boys & Girls de Chicago y codirector del evento Joven del Año. “Sus algunas veces difíciles, pero edificantes historias de logros demuestran su tenacidad y vencerán cualquier obstáculo en su camino al éxito. # Cranberries May Help Fight UTIs Naturally, But Not in Juice Form

Ever rush out to buy a bottle of cranberry juice when you get a urinary tract infection? Well, new research published in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology suggests that the well-known remedy may be no more than a panacea for soothing the pain, unless you pop the tart little berry in supplement form, Medical News Today reports. For the study, researchers recruited 160 patients who were undergoing gynecological surgery between 2011 and 2013. (According to statistics, 10 to 64 percent of women develop a UTI after such surgery). As treatment, half of the patients received two cranberry capsules twice each day the equivalent of two 8-ounce servings of cranberry juice, for six weeks after surgery. The others took a placebo. Researchers found that the cranberry capsules reduced the risk of UTIs by 50 percent. In the cranberry treatment group, 19 percent of patients developed an infection, compared with 38 percent in the placebo group. If you don't have access to ultra-concentrated cranberry pills, a persistent UTI can be treated with antibiotics, or, as an alternative, researchers proposed using probiotics or "good" bacteria found in the digestive tract. Probiotics can be found in a multitude of foods, including fermented vegetables (like sauerkraut) and yogurt.

Herbalife Victims Participate in Symposium

More than $3.5 million has been lost by the 207 victims of Herbalife, Inc., who have filed complaints with the Illinois Attorney General's office. The Illinois Herbalife Campaign shared those sobering stats with federal regulators and law enforcement officials who gathered for a symposium on combating pyramid schemes in Latino and immigrant communities organized by the US Securities Exchange Commission (SEC). To further raise awareness of predatory business practices in our communities, the Illinois Herbalife Campaign's Faces of Fraud exhibit was invited to the symposium to share the stories of how hardworking members of the community were drawn by Herbalife's pyramid schemes. According to representatives from the SEC, speaking with actual victims at the event will help develop initiatives to alert consumers of pyramid schemes that target various ethnic and religious communities. Hosted by the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) the symposium held two panels that featured federal agencies like the SEC, FTC, FBI, and the Illinois

Attorney General's Office. The federal agencies came together to discuss and exchange tactics in detecting and combating pyramid schemes that target immigrant communities. For more information on the Faces of Fraud exhibit or upcoming events, please email us at ilherbalies@gmail.com.

Víctimas de Herbalife Participan en un Simposio

Más de $3.5 millones han perdido 207 víctimas de Herbalife, Inc., quienes registraron quejas en la oficina de la Procuradora General de Illinois. La Campaña Herbalife de Illinois compartió estas alarmantes estadísticas con reguladores federales y funcionarios de la ley, quienes se reunieron en un simposio para combatir los timos de pirámides en comunidades latinas y de inmigrantes organizadas por US Securities Exchange Commission (SEC). Para concientizar más sobre prácticas comerciales engañosas en nuestras comunidades, la exhibición Los Rostros del Fraude de la Campaña Herbalife de Illinois fue invitada al simposio para compartir las historias de cómo personas trabajadoras de la comunidad fueron víctimas del fraude de la pirámide de Herbalife. De acuerdo a representantes de SEC, el hablar con las víctimas ayudará a desarrollar iniciativas para alertar a los consumidores de los fraudes de pirámides que hacen blanco en diferentes comunidades étnicas y religiosas. Ofrecido por la Universidad de Illinois en Chicago (UIC) el simposio tuvo dos paneles que presentaron agencias federales como SEC, FTC, FBI y la Oficina de la Procuradora General de Illinois. Las agencias federales se reunieron para discutir e intercambiar tácticas para detectar y combatir el fraude pirámide que hace blanco en las comunidades inmigrantes. Para más información sobre la exhibición Los Rostros del Fraude o próximos eventos, comuníquese a ilherbalies@gmail.com.

Worried About Diabetes? Try Adding Barley to Your Diet

Barley, a versatile high-fiber cereal grain with a distinct nutlike flavor and chewy, pasta-like consistency, may help reduce the risk of diabetes and lower blood sugar levels, suggest new findings published in the British Journal of Nutrition, Medical News Today reports. For the study, researchers at the Food for Health Science Center at Lund University in Sweden carried out a study with 20 healthy, middle-aged patients. One group ate barley kernel bread at breakfast, lunch and dinner for three days, while the other participants ate white bread at meals as a control for the duration of the study. After patients ate dinner each day, researchers assessed participants for various risk indicators of diabetes and heart disease.

Results showed that the participants who ate the barley kernel bread at meals experienced lower blood sugar and insulin levels, as well as improved appetite control and increased insulin sensitivity up to 14 hours after consuming it. "We saw an increase in gut hormones that regulate metabolism and appetite and an increase in a hormone that helps reduce chronic low-grade inflammation among the participants," said Anne Nilsson, associate professor at Lund University and one of the study's lead researchers. "In time, this could help prevent the occurrence of both cardiovascular disease and diabetes." Barley is also high in protein and B vitamins and has a much lower glycemic index than white flour. Glycemic index, a.k.a. GI, is a measurement of the effect foods containing carbohydrates have on blood sugar levels.

Foods with a low GI curb appetite and lower overall blood sugar spikes when compared with other carbohydrate-containing foods. Scientists suggested people eat breads made with as much whole grain as possible, and to avoid white flour. They also suggested adding barley grains into soups and stews, and to replace cooked rice with barley.

¿Preocupado por la Diabetes? Trate de Agregar Cebada a su Dieta

La cebada, versátil cereal alto en fibra, con sabor parecido a la nuez y masticable, puede ayudar a reducir el riesgo de la diabetes y bajar los niveles de azúcar en la sangre, sugieren nuevos hallazgos publicados en el Diario Británico de Nutrición, reporta Medical News Today. Para el estudio, los investigadores de Food for Health Science Center y

Lund University en Suiza, llevaron a cabo un estudio con 20 pacientes saludables de edad media. Un grupo comió pan de grano de cebada en el desayuno, almuerzo y comida por tres días, mientras los otros participantes comían pan blanco en las comidas como control de la duración del estudio. aiming for his fourth year of perfect attendance while maintaining a 3.5 GPA. Gerardo is a 12-year member of the Little Village Boys & Girls Club, where he loves athletics and helping younger members. As captain of Curie's wrestling team, Gerardo possesses a weightlifter's strength (he placed first in the regional competition this year), and a businessman's ambition (he's president of Curie's Business Professionals of America chapter). His love of sport and business was nurtured at the Club, where Gerardo received the support and inspiration to do his best, while the Club also offered him a safe and productive environment away from the street.

Marcos Matias, 16, has been a member of the Logan Square Boys & Girls Club for so long, he can hardly remember his first visit. Marcos, reserved by nature, likes to help people, so he began volunteering to assist the director with various tasks. As he grew older, he took on more responsibility at the Club, which he credits for making him more outgoing, honing his leadership skills, and building lasting relationships with staff and other Club members. He says the Club not only improves the lives of its members, but has made the entire neighborhood stronger and safer. A resident of Portage Park and a sophomore at Rauner College Prep with a GPA over 3.5, Marcos is an avid reader, plays trumpet in the band, participates in track and field and baseball, writes poetry, and enjoys photography.

Christian Ortega, 17, has grown up in Chicago's Little Village neighborhood, where he says the True Value Boys & Girls Club has had a powerful impact on many lives - including his. A very sociable young man, Christian says he was "hooked instantly" the first time he stepped into the Club four years ago. Even though he knew only one Club member, he saw that everyone was "naturally friendly" and that Club staff "genuinely care" about the members. He dove into various programs and moved into a leadership role, helping to plan events, trips and dances. Christian says the skills he has learned at the Club are readily applied to everyday life, motivating him to be more involved at John Spry Community School, where he is a senior, and helping his mother around the house. He was a member of the business club at Spry and now participates in the movie club, a natural tie-in to his goal of becoming an actor. To learn more, visit www.BGCC.org.

CTU President Addresses Parent Mentor Convention

By: Ashmar Mandou

A pool of influential leaders, including State Representative Elizabeth Hernandez and State Representative William Davis participated in the annual Statewide Parent Mentor Convention at Banquet Hall Apostolic Church Monday morning where they met with over 700 Parent Mentors, who work over 14,000 students across Illinois. It was a celebration for parents whose diligent work has not gone unnoticed by a slew of elected officials and Keynote Speaker Chicago Teachers Union President Karen Lewis who said, "parent mentors your daily work in the classrooms is very valuable," in front a fervent crowd.

The Parent Mentor

Program was developed by the Logan Square Neighborhood Association (LSNA) in 1995 aimed to increase parent engagement in classroom settings. Initially, the program grew from one school to 70 schools working with 16 community based organizations, including Brighton Park Neighborhood Council, Enlace Chicago, Family Focus Aurora, Logan Square Neighborhood Association, The Resurrection Project, and Southwest Organizing Project to mention a few. As a nationally recognized program, parents are recruited and trained to reiterated their stern commitment to sustain and expand the program, 'no matter what.' During the convention, parents, community leaders, and school staff recognized the achievements of the parent mentors, shared stories of personal and school transformation, and participated in workshops, including racial equity in education, college readiness, social media, and community mental health. "Without the parents in the classroom assisting the teachers like us and the students, I don't think that my scores would have been off the charts as they were," said First Grade Teacher Ms. Tayler at Hughes Elementary in Chicago.

Jovenes del Año...

Marcos Matías, de 16 años, ha sido miembro del Club Boys & Girls de Logan Square por tanto tiempo que apenas puede recordar su primera visita. A Marcos, reservado por naturaleza, le gusta ayudar a la gente, por lo que empezó ofreciéndose como voluntario para ayudar al director con tareas varias. Al crecer tomó más responsabilidades en el Club, a quien acredita el ser más extrovertido, fomentando sus destrezas de liderazgo y estableciendo relaciones duraderas con el personal y otros miembros del Club. Dice que el Club no solo mejora la vida de sus miembros, sino que a todo el vecindario lo ha hecho más fuerte y seguro.

Residente de Portage Park y estudiante de segundo año en Rauner College Prep, con un GPA de más de 3.5, Marcos es ávido lector, toca la trompeta en la banda, participa en pista y campo y juega béisbol, escribe poesía y disfruta la fotografía.

Christian Ortega, de 17 años, creció en el barrio de La Villita en Chicago, donde dice que el verdadero valor del Club Boys & Girls es que tiene un poderoso impacto en muchas vidas – incluyendo la suya. Un joven muy sociable, Christian dice que quedó "enganchado inmediatamente" la primera vez que entró al Club, hace cuatro años. Aún cuando solo conocía a un miembro del club, vio que todos eran "naturalmente amigables" y que el personal del Club "verdaderamente se interesaba" en ellos. Entró a varios programas y pasó a un papel de liderazgo, ayudando a planear eventos, viajes y bailes. Christian dice que las destrezas que ha aprendido en el Club se pueden aplicar a la vida diaria, motivándolo a participar más en la Escuela Comunitaria John Spry, donde es estudiante de último año y ayuda a su madre en la casa. Fue miembro del club comercial en Spry y ahora participa en el club de cine, vínculo natural a su meta de ser actor.

los pacientes tomaban la comida cada día, los investigadores evaluaban a los participantes en varios factores de riesgo indicadores de diabetes o enfermedades cardíacas.

Los resultados mostraron que los participantes que comieron el pan de grano de cebada experimentaron azúcar más baja en la sangre y los niveles de insulina, así como una mejora en el control del apetito y aumento a la sensibilidad de la insulina hasta 14 horas después de haberlo consumido. "Vimos un aumento en las hormonas intestinales que regulan el metabolismo y el apetito y un aumento en una hormona que ayuda a reducir la inflamación crónica de bajo grado entre los participantes", dijo Anne Nilsson, profesora asociada en Lund University y una de los investigadores líder del estudio. "Con el tiempo, esto podría ayudar a evitar las enfermedades cardiovasculares y la diabetes. La cebada es también alta en proteína y vitaminas B y tiene un índice de glucosa mucho más bajo que la harina blanca. El índice de glucosa, a.k.a. GI es una prueba del efecto que los alimentos que contienen carbohidratos tienen en los niveles de azúcar en la sangre. Los alimentos con bajo GI frenan el apetito y bajan los niveles de azúcar en la sangre, comparados con otros alimentos que contienen carbohidratos. Los científicos sugieren que la gente coma pan hecho con granos enteros lo más que puedan y eviten el azúcar blanca. Sugieren también agregar granos de cebada a las sopas y guisados y reemplazar el arroz cocinado con cebada.
