Addressing Sexual Harassment

By: Ashmar Mandou

The Illinois Anti-Harassment, Equality and Access (AHEA) Panel on Tuesday released a framework for political party leaders and campaigns to adopt in order to transform the behaviors that have allowed sexual harassment to pervade the political system and hinder the advancement of women for decades. "Every political party here in Illinois has a historic opportunity to make a break from a past where women were subject to debasing and unacceptable behaviors in the workplace that not only humiliated and shamed them, but stunted or ended the potential of many bright careers," said State Comptroller Susana A. Mendoza. "Let's send a message by bypassing partisanship and together embrace a future where we support and celebrate women, as well as people of color, people with disabilities and the LGBTQ community as equals in this system."

A non-partisan organization led by State Comptroller Susana A. Mendoza, State Sen. Melinda Bush (31st District, Grayslake) and State Rep. Carol

Ammons (103rd District, Champaign), the Panel sent its report to Democratic, Green, Libertarian, and Republican party leaders at the state and county level as well as all statewide and state-level campaigns registered with the State Board of Elections. Some of the highlights of the Panel's recommendations include: tie party funding and resources to campaigns adopting policies and participating in anti-harassment training; create an independent body that is independent from party leadership to receive complaints of sexual harassment within the parties and on campaigns; and a commitment by each party to put forth resources in the form of dollars and staff to intentionally recruit and support women to win 50 percent of elected offices across state, county and municipal offices, and move more women into leadership positions throughout political organizations and campaigns.

Last July, the panel hosted six listening sessions in cities across Illinois to gather feedback and input from women of all political persuasions who work or once worked in politics to help inform the outcome and recommendations of this report. The listening tour included: Urbana-Champaign; Chicago; Rockford; Edwardsville; Springfield; and Carbondale. Hundreds of women ultimately participated in this process. "Sexual harassment doesn't discriminate by industry, workplace, title or political party. It's on all of us to create workspaces where women are safe and empowered to lead," said Tina Tchen, legal counsel to the Illinois Anti-Harassment, Equality and Access (AHEA) Panel. "Navigating gender issues in the workplace isn't always easy and our existing tools and laws do not fully address these issues. I'm hopeful this new roadmap will give campaign leadership the tools they need to get it right, and help create an environment where women are not only supported in the workplace, but are also met with dignity, respect and the resources they need to lead or run for public office. I hope this report will serve as a stepping stone in moving Illinois forward." For more information, visit www.AHEApanel.org.

Abordando el Acoso Sexual

Por: Ashmar Mandou

El Panel Illinois Anti-Harassment, Equality and Access (AHEA) dio a conocer un marco para que los líderes y las campañas de los partidos políticos lo adopten para transformar los comportamientos que han permitido que el acoso sexual impregne el sistema político e impida, por décadas, el avance de la mujer. “Cada partido político en Illinois tiene una oportunidad histórica de romper con el pasado, donde la mujer estaba sujeta a conductas degradantes e inaceptables, en el lugar de trabajo, que no solo las humillaba y avergonzaba, sino que acababa con el potencial de muchas carreras brillantes”, dijo la Interventora Estatal Susana A. Mendoza. “Envíemos un mensaje evitando el partidismo y abracemos juntos un futuro donde apoyemos y celebremos a la mujer, así como a la gente de color, a la gente discapacitada y a la comunidad LGBTQ por igual en este sistema”.

Organización no partisana conducida por la Interventora Estatal Susana A. Mendoza, la Sen. Estatal Melinda Bush (Distrito 31, Grayslake) y la Rep. Estatal Carol Ammons (Distrito 103, Champaign), el Panel envió su reporte a los líderes de los partidos Demócrata, Verde, Liberal y Republicano en el estado y a nivel de condado, así como a todas las campañas del estado y a nivel estatal registrada con la Junta de Elecciones Estatal. Algunas de las principales recomendaciones del Panel incluyen: vincular el financiamiento y los recursos del partido a las campañas que adoptan políticas y participan en la capacitación contra el acoso; crear un cuerpo independiente que sea independiente del liderazgo del partido para recibir quejas de acoso sexual dentro de los partidos y en las campañas; y el compromiso de cada partido de poner recursos en forma de dólares y personal, para reclutar intencionalmente y apoyar a la mujer para obtener el 50 por ciento de oficinas electas en el estado, el país y las oficinas municipales y avanzar más mujeres a posiciones de liderazgo a través de organizaciones y campañas políticas.

El pasado julio, el panel ofreció seis sesiones de escucha en ciudades de Illinois para reunir opiniones de mujeres en toda tendencia política, que trabajan o trabajaron en política, para ayudar a informar el resultado y las recomendaciones de este reporte. La gira de escucha incluyó: Urbana-Champaign; Chicago; Rockford; Edwardsville; Springfield; y Carbondale. Cientos de mujeres participaron en este proceso. “El acoso sexual no discrimina por la industria, el lugar de trabajo, el título o el partido político. Toca a todos nosotros crear lugares de trabajo donde la mujer esté segura y empoderada al liderazgo”, dijo Tina Tchen, consejera legal del Panel Illinois Anti-Harassment, Equality and Access (AHEA). “Atender problemas de género en el trabajo no siempre es fácil y nuestros medios y leyes existentes no atienden estos problemas por completo. Espero que este nuevo mapa de a los líderes de campaña los medios necesarios para que actúen bien y les ayude a crear un ambiente donde la mujer no solo sea apoyada en el lugar del trabajo, sino que se le trate con dignidad, respeto y los recursos necesarios para dirigir o conducir una oficina pública. Espero que este reporte sirva como un trampolín para impulsar a Illinois.

Hispanic Heritage Month:

Sandra Cordova Micek

By: Ashmar Mandou

Storytelling is the cornerstone of bridging communities together and is top priority for newly appointed Window to the World Communications, Inc., WWCI Chief Executive Officer Sandra Cordova Micek. "This is an exciting time for WTTW and WFMT and I am incredibly honored to be taking on the president and CEO role for WWCI," said Micek. "It is a privilege to be a part of an organization committed to creating and presenting innovative, quality content. I hope to leverage my experience in business strategy, cross-platform media and audience building to successfully lead the organization. This role uniquely taps into my passions for the arts and humanities, life-long learning and public affairs. I look forward to working with the talented team to engage diverse audiences and communities in Chicago and beyond." Cordova, whose parents are immigrants from Ecuador, was born in New York and gained a wild amount of perspectives living in various cities working for Yahoo, NBC Universal, and USA Today. We place a spotlight on Cordova during our Hispanic Heritage Month series as she is the first Latina woman to be named CEO of WTTW as she shares her insights into the importance of journalism, curiosity, and Hispanic contributions.

Perspectives

I like to think I have a broad perspective and a global perspective because I lived in many different cities. I was born in New York and I lived there and I also lived in Philadelphia, London, San Francisco,

Washington D.C., and Chicago. I've lived in some great cities, great food cities, great culture cities, but also cities with diverse populations. So I like to think that I not only come with a global perspective, but of diversity and inclusion. That's very important to me. I would like to make sure that this organization continues to reflect the diversity in Chicago that is a priority for me as I take on this role and that includes the perspective of women in Chicago, but overall I think I bring a mix of perspectives.

Journalism

I have a real passion for journalism. I appreciate what journalists do every single day in telling stories. For me, I put the First Amendment at the top of the list. Journalists are there to do their job and to tell stories that need to be told. I feel proud to be part of an organization like Chicago Tonight, for example, that tells the stories that need to be told in more depth than others can do on a nightly basis in an unbiased way. I am a strong advocate for journalism, period.

Curiosity

I always tell people that part of being successful is being curious. I feel like what I always had was this sense of curiosity. I went to Syracuse University thinking I was going to be a journalist and halfway along the way I got interested in the business side of media. I felt that curiosity and interest in journalism has been a good anchor for me, but I wasn't afraid to try other things. One of the lessons that someone shared with me as I was starting my career was don't be afraid to ask someone to have a cup of coffee, someone you don't even know. I've always taken that to heart. You have to be curious about the people, their jobs, what they do in order to really have a meaningful conversation. I tell young people coming out of school to be curious.

Hispanic Heritage

I have asked that question. 'What are we doing?' 'What are we showing?' 'What programming?' on the news side. It's about sharing programming that is really valuable and worth doing. It's about highlighting role models who are making a difference in their community. For me, it's about making sure we shine a light in that period of time on the contributions that are being made by the Hispanic community in a variety of different ways and we are doing that through our programming.

Mes de la Herencia Hispana: Sandra Córdova Micek

Por: Ashmar Mandou

El contar historias es la piedra angular para unir a las comunidades y la principal prioridad para la recién nombrada Funcionaria Ejecutiva en Jefe de Window to the World Communications, Inc., WWCI, Sandra Córdova Micek. "Este es un momento emocionante para WTTW Y WFMT y me siento increíblemente honrada al tomar la presidencia y el papel de CEO para WWCI", dijo Micek. "es un privilegio ser parte de una organización comprometida a crear y presentar un contenido innovador y de calidad. Espero aprovechar mi experiencia en estrategia comercial, medios multiplataforma y establecimiento de audiencia para conducir con éxito la organización. Este papel se ajusta de manera única a mis pasiones por las artes y las humanidades, aprendizaje de toda una vida y asuntos públicos. Espero trabajar con un equipo talentoso para atraer diversas audiencias y comunidades de Chicago y más allá". Córdova, cuyos padres emigraron de Ecuador, nació en Nueva York y obtuvo muchas perspectivas viviendo en varias ciudades y trabajando para Yahoo, NBC Universal y USA Today. Pusimos nuestro enfoque en Córdova en la serie del Mes de la Herencia Hispana ya que es la primera mujer latina nombrada CEO de WTTW y comparte su punto de vista sobre la importancia del periodismo, la curiosidad y las contribuciones hispanas.

Perspectivas

Me gusta pensar que tengo una amplia perspectiva y una perspectiva global porque

viví en muchas ciudades diferentes. Nací en Nueva York y viví ahí y también viví en Filadelfia, Londres, San Francisco, Washington D.C. y Chicago. He vivido en algunas grandes ciudades, con una muy buena comida, ciudades con mucha cultura, pero también ciudades con poblaciones diversas. Así que me gusta pensar que no solo vengo con una la Primera Enmienda a la cabeza de la lista. Los periodistas están ahí para hacer su trabajo y contar historias que necesitan decirse. Me siento orgullosa de ser parte de una organización como Chicago Tonight, por ejemplo, cuenta las historias que necesitan ser contadas con más profundidad de lo que otras pueden hacerlo, todas cosas. Una de las lecciones que alguien compartió conmigo cuando estaba comenzando mi carrera era no tener miedo de pedir a alguien una taza de café, a alguien que ni siquiera conoces. Siempre me lo tomé en serio. Uno tiene que ser curioso sobre la gente, sus empleos, que hacen para realmente tener una conversación significativa.

Les digo a los jóvenes que salgan de la escuela y sean curiosos.

Herencia Hispana

Me he hecho esa pregunta. '¿Qué estamos haciendo?' '¿Qué estamos mostrando?' '¿Qué programación?' en cuanto a las noticias. Se trata de compartir programación que sea realmente valiosa y valga la pena. Se trata de destacar figuras modelo que están haciendo una diferencia en sus comunidades. Para mí, se trata de asegurar que destaquemos en ese período las contribuciones que está haciendo la comunidad hispana lo está haciendo en diferentes formas y lo estamos haciendo a través de nuestra programación.

perspectiva global, sino con una perspectiva de diversidad e inclusión. Eso para mí es muy importante. Quisiera asegurarme que esta organización continúa reflejando la diversidad en Chicago, que es una prioridad para mí, ya que otomo este papel y eso incluye la perspectiva de la mujer en Chicago, pero sobre todo creo que traigo una mezcla de perspectivas.

Periodismo

Tengo una verdadera pasión por el periodismo. Aprecio lo que los periodistas hacen cada día al contar sus historias. Yo pongo las noches, de una manera imparcial. Soy una fuerte defensora del periodismo, punto.

Curiosidad

Siempre digo a la gente que parte de alcanzar el éxito es ser curioso. Siento que lo que siempre tuve fue ese sentido de la curiosidad. Fui a Syracuse University pensando que iba a ser una periodista y a mitad del camino me interesé por el aspecto comercial de los medios. Sentí que esa curiosidad e interés en el periodismo había sido un ancla para mí, pero no tenía miedo de probar otras

The Unequal State of Higher Education in Illinois

At a time when 1.6 million people in Illinois live below the poverty line and when postsecondary attainment is more important than ever, a new report by the Chicago-based Partnership for College Completion reveals the rising cost of college combined with state budget cuts has put college diplomas farther out of reach for low-income students and students of color. Increasing college persistence and completion rates for these students is critical to the state's economic health but the report, entitled "Unequal Opportunity in Illinois: A Look at Who Graduates College and Why It Matters," paints a grim picture of the persistent achievement gaps between rich and poor. The key findings of the report include:

- In Illinois, the cost of college relative to family income has escalated more than almost all states, with the average public university in-state tuition and fees ranked fifth highest in the nation in fiscal year 2016. •Illinois is one of only four states that cut funding of higher education over the last two fiscal years, with a total drop in funding of 68 percent. More than 160,000 low-income students eligible for MAP grants – or about half of those eligible – could not claim awards due to insufficient funding in fiscal year 2016. •While college enrollment among underrepresented groups has increased nearly ten percentage points in the last ten years, the completion gap between low-income and wealthier students remains alarming: only 37 percent of low-income students graduate in six years, compared to 75 percent of their wealthier peers.

The report draws from public data and published studies to highlight trends that have broad implications in Illinois, where nearly half of high school graduates are low-income and over 40 percent are black or Latino. While median-income families in Illinois need to set aside 25 percent of their total income for a student to attend a public four-year institution, low-income families need to set aside a staggering 63 percent of their income. Dunbar Vocational Career Academy High School in Chicago's Bronzeville neighborhood is partnering with ComEd to launch an energy academy that will make the science of energy a key part of the students' four-year learning experience and offer paid apprenticeships to prepare them for job opportunities and further education. School officials, teachers, community leaders and ComEd representatives launched the Dunbar Energy Academy and welcomed the first group of ninth graders – members of the Dunbar Vocational High School class of 2022 – into the program. The "Get into Energy" curriculum created by the Center for Energy Workforce Development provides the foundation for the program. The curriculum includes:

- Introduction to energy for freshmen
- STEM and engineering for sophomores
- Energy industry fundamentals for juniors

- Skilled energy technician fundamentals for seniors. ComEd will augment in-class learning with guest speakers on renewable energy, energy efficiency and smart city technologies, among other subjects. It will also provide tours of ComEd's training center in Bridgeport and other facilities and offer participation in an annual Youth Energy Conference.

City of Chicago Looking for the Perfect Christmas Tree

The City of Chicago is looking for a tree to grace Millennium Park this holiday season and serve as the City's "official" Christmas tree. Through October 19, the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events will accept tree nominations from the Chicagoland area. The family of the selected tree will get the opportunity to "flip the switch" and light the tree at the 105th Annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony on November 16th in Millennium Park. In order to secure the perfect tree, all trees nominated must meet the following criteria:

Be at least 55 feet or taller;
Be located less than 100 miles from Chicago's Loop;
AND preferably, be a Spruce or Fir Tree. Pine trees are ineligible; they are not sturdy enough.
Trees that do not meet the criteria will not be considered. All submissions need to include: the owner(s) name, address, phone and email; at least two photographs (one from afar and one up close); and a brief description of why the tree should be Chicago's official Christmas Tree including any background information on the tree that makes it special. Trees can be nominated via email to DCASE@cityofchicago.org or by mail to the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events, ATTN: Christmas Tree Contest, 78 E. Washington Street, Chicago, IL. 60602 (must be received by October 19). The selected tree will be announced in early November. For complete details, please visit www.cityofchicago.org/dcace.

City Introduces Home-Buying Pilot Program

A new pilot home-buying program would help residents purchase newly-built affordable homes in six South and West side neighborhoods through a financial proposal introduced today to City Council by Mayor Rahm Emanuel. The Building Neighborhoods and Affordable Homes program would provide purchase price assistance to qualifying homebuyers in portions of Englewood, North and South Lawndale, Humboldt Park, Garfield Park, and Woodlawn. The program would offer up to $60,000 in assistance to support the purchase of homes built through the City Lots for Working Families program, which provides vacant, City-owned lots to developers of affordable single-family and two-flat homes for $1 each.

Residents earning up to 140 percent of area median income, or $94,780 for a two-person household and $101,520 for a four-person household, would be eligible to participate. Homebuyers must first qualify for financing from a mortgage lender. An initial $5 million in grants would be funded through the City's Affordable Housing Opportunity Fund to support the pilot, which has the dual goals of helping working families with down payment and closing costs as well as stimulating targeted housing markets. The assistance would be made available for up to 100 buyers to purchase a home to use as their primary residence for 10 years. Ten percent of the grant amount would be forgiven for each year of the 10-year term. If the owner sells the home before the term expires, the pro-rated balance must be repaid. Other program rules apply.

La Ciudad Presenta el Programa Piloto de Compra de Vivienda

Un nuevo programa piloto de compra de vivienda ayudaría a los residentes a comprar casas económicas, recién construidas, en los barrios Sur y Oeste, a través de una propuesta financiera presentada hoy al Concilio de la Ciudad por el Alcalde Rahm Emanuel. El programa Building Neighborhoods and Affordable Homes ofrecería ayuda con el precio de compra a compradores calificados en partes de Englewood, North y Sur Lawndale, Humboldt Park, Garfield Park y Woodlawn. El programa ofrecería hasta $60,000 en ayuda en la compra de casas construidas a través del programa City Lots for Working Families

[Lotes de la Ciudad para Familias Trabajadoras], que ofrecen lotes vacantes y de la ciudad a urbanizadores de casas económicas unifamiliares y de dos pisos, por $1 cada uno.

Los residentes que ganen hasta 140 por ciento del ingreso medio del área, o $94,780 para una familia de dos personas y $101,520 para una familia de cuatro personas, serían elegibles para participar. Los compradores deben calificar primero para financiamiento de un prestamista hipotecario. $5 millones iniciales en subsidios serían patrocinados por el Fondo de Oportunidades de Vivienda Económica de la Ciudad para apoyar el programa piloto, que tiene la doble meta de ayudar a las familias trabajadoras con el pago inicial y los costos del cierre, así como estimular el mercado de la vivienda. Habría asistencia disponible para hasta 100 personas que compren una casa para usarla como su residencia primaria por 10 años. El diez por ciento del subsidio sería dispensado cada año del término de 10. Si el propietario vende la casa antes de que el término expire, el saldo a prorrata debe ser reembolsado. Aplican otras reglas del programa.

La Ciudad de Chicago Busca el Arbol de Navidad Perfecto

La Ciudad de Chicago está buscando un árbol que adorne el Millennium Park esta temporada navideña y sea el árbol de Navidad "oficial" de la Ciudad. Hasta el 19 de octubre, el Departamento de Asuntos Culturales y Eventos Especiales aceptará nominaciones de árboles del área de Chicago. La familia del árbol seleccionado tendrá la oportunidad de "accionar el switch" e iluminar el árbol en la Ceremonia Anual 105^o de Iluminación del Arbol de Navidad, el 16 de noviembre, en el Millennium Park. Para garantizar el árbol perfecto, todos los árboles nominados deben reunir las siguientes características. Tener por lo menos 55 pies o más de alto; Estar localizado a menos de 100 millas del Centro de Chicago;

Y de preferencia ser un árbol Spruce o Fir. Los pinos no son elegibles; no son lo suficientemente fuertes.

Los árboles que no reúnan las características requeridas no serán considerados. La presentación del árbol debe incluir: el nombre del propietario o propietarios, la dirección, el teléfono y el correo electrónico; por lo menos dos fotografías, (una de lejos y una de cerca); una breve descripción de porqué el árbol debe ser el Arbol de Navidad oficial de Chicago, incluyendo información de antecedentes del árbol que lo haga especial. Los árboles pueden ser nominados via email a DCASE@cityofchicago.org o por correo a Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events, ATTN: Christmas Tree Contest, 78 E. Washington St., Chicago IL., 60602 (debe recibirse a más tardar el 19 de octubre). El árbol seleccionado será anunciado a principios de noviembre. Get Help for Drepression

Five Self-Help Tools to Use if You Are Depressed

By Carol Tuttle

I personally know the struggle and challenge of depression. Deep depression was the catalyst that brought me to apply, study, and then practice Energy Healing when I was a young mother of 28. I had 4 small children at the time and I was in a deep, dark place. Not a good place to be when you have 4 bright-eyed, beautiful kids needing you each day. I started looking for more natural methods of healing. I am grateful that I have successfully healed my depression. Here are 5 of the top self-help tools that helped me and I hope they help you if this is your challenge, or that you will share them with someone that you know that is challenged with depression.

1. Stop your negative thoughts. If you have a problem stopping obsessive thinking, get an eye patch and patch your right eye. Patching your right eye will shut down the left hemisphere of your brain and the negative, obsessive thinking. It is better than a glass of wine!

2. Zip-up your central meridian. Your central meridian is the energy pathway that runs from your pubic bone to your bottom lip. It can act like a radio receiver if it is not zipped up, picking up negative energies and vibes of others around you. Zip it up by imagining zipping up a zipper that runs up this pathway.

3. Go for a vigorous walk every day. Walking will increase your endorphins, which lifts your mood. Walking also activates your energy flows to cross from left to right, right to left. A healthy crossover flow of energy lifts your mood 40-60 percent.

4. Refer to your depression as an experience that you are having that can be healed, rather than an identity you are stuck in. Stop saying, “I am depressed or I am suffering from depression.” Your “I am’s” define your identity and keep you stuck with more of what you don’t want. A healthier way of referring to your experience of depression is to say: “I am experiencing the condition of depression, and it is healing.”

Cinco Medios de Autoayuda Para Cuando se Está Deprimido

Por: Carol Tuttle

Yo personalmente conozco la lucha y el reto de una depresión. Una depresión profunda fue el catalizador que me llevó a solicitar, estudiar y practicar la Energía Curativa [Energy Healing] cuando era una joven madre de 28 años. Tenía cuatro niños pequeños en esa época y me encontraba en un abismo profundo y oscuro. No un buen cuando se tienen cuatro hermosos niños que te necesitan cada día. Empecé a buscar más métodos naturales de curación. Doy gracias por haber podido curar mi depresión. A continuación cinco de los mejores medios de autoayuda que me salvaron y espero les ayuden si este es su problema, o que los compartan con alguien que usted sepa está luchando contra la depresión. •

1. Deten los pensamientos negativos. Si tienes un pensamiento obsesivo, consigue un parche y cúbrete el ojo derecho. El cubrir tu ojo derecho detendrá el hemisferio izquierdo de tu cerebro y el pensamiento negativo, obsesivo. Es mejor que un vaso de vino!

2. Bloquea tu meridiano central. Tu meridiano central es el camino a la energía que va, desde tu hueso púbico a tu labio inferior. Puede actuar como un receptor de radio si no está cerrado, recogiendo energías negativas y vibras de las personas que te rodean. Ciérralo imaginando un cierre que recorre ese camino.

3. Has una caminata vigorosa todos los días. El caminar aumenta las endorfinas, lo que te levanta el ánimo. Caminar activa también la corriente de energía de izquierda a derecha y de derecha a izquierda.

5. Cree que vas a estar bien. Lo que tu crees es tu realidad. Si dudas y temes que nunca vas a curarte – no lo vas a hacer. Si crees que puedes y lo vas a lograr, es lo que vas a atraer en tu vida. Considera la posibilidad de que uno de los mayores propósitos de tu depresión fue permitirte tener la experiencia de salir de ella para graduarte y lograr un estado de ánimo superior.

Siempre que vencemos las experiencias de la vida parece que tienen el poder de inclusive destruirnos, reclamamos fuertes poderes de nuestro verdadero yo y podemos tocar la vida de otras personas como resultado. Cree en ti mismo, cree en tu sanación y cree en que como resultado puedes hacer grandes contribuciones a la humanidad.

5. Believe you can get well. Your belief creates your reality. If you doubt and fear you may never get well — you may not. If you believe you can and will you call it forth in your life. Consider the possibility that one of the higher purposes of your depression was to allow you the experience of healing it to graduate you into more of your true magnificence.

Anytime we overcome life experiences that felt like they had the power to even destroy us, we claim mighty powers of our true selves and have great abilities to touch the lives of others as a result. Believe in yourself, believe in your healing, and believe you have a great contribution to make as a result.

Un torrenge cruzado de energía saludable levanta tu estado de ánimo un 40-60 por ciento.

4. Habla de tu depresión como una experiencia que tienes y que puede ser curada, en vez de una identidad en la que estás preso. Deja de decir, “Estoy deprimido o estoy padeciendo una depresión”. Tu “Estoy” define tu identidad y te mantiene preso con más de lo que tu no quieres. Una manera saludable de referirse a tu depresión es decir: “Estoy experimentando la condición de depresión y estoy saliendo de ella”.

Hardwired for Laziness?

If getting to the gym seems like a struggle, a University of British Columbia researcher wants you to know this: the struggle is real, and it's happening inside your brain. The brain is where Matthieu Boisgontier and his colleagues went looking for answers to what they call the “exercise paradox”: for decades, society has encouraged people to be more physically active, yet statistics show that despite our best intentions, we are actually becoming less active. The research findings, published recently in Neuropsychologia, suggest that our brains may simply be wired to prefer lying on the couch. For the study, the researchers recruited young adults, sat them in front of a computer, and gave them control of an on-screen avatar. They then flashed small images, one a time, that depicted either physical activity or physical inactivity. Subjects had to move the avatar as quickly as possible toward the pictures of physical activity and away from the pictures of physical inactivity -- and then vice versa. Meanwhile, electrodes recorded what was happening in their brains. Participants were generally faster at moving toward active pictures and away from lazy pictures, but brain-activity readouts called electroencephalograms showed that doing the latter required their brains to work harder.

City Health Department Investigates Legionnaires' Disease in Chicago

The Chicago Department of Public Health (CDPH) is investigating two laboratory-confirmed cases of Legionnaires' disease in two individuals who both stayed at Embassy Suites located at 600 North State Street in Chicago. Both patients have been treated and are recovering. At this time, it is not known whether the Embassy Suites was the source of the bacteria that caused the two people to become sick. Potential exposure sites are being sampled and hotel management is cooperating fully with the investigation. There is no immediate risk to the public. Legionnaires' disease is a serious type of pneumonia. People can get Legionnaires' disease by breathing in small water droplets containing Legionella bacteria. Symptoms may include fever, cough, shortness of breath and severe headache. If you have experienced these symptoms within two weeks of staying at the Embassy Suites at 600 North State Street, contact your health provider. At CDPH's recommendation, Embassy Suites has closed all water features while testing is underway and thorough disinfection is being performed. This will greatly reduce the risk of Legionnaires' disease, if any Legionella was present. Once exposed to Legionella bacteria, disease risk may be increased among individuals who are 50 years or older, who smoke cigarettes, or who have certain medical conditions, such as a weakened immune system. Anyone with further questions or concerns can contact CDPH at 312-746-7425.

El Departamento de Salud de la Ciudad Investiga la Enfermedad de los Legionarios en Chicago

El Departamento de Salud Pública de Chicago (CDPH) está investigando dos casos confirmados de laboratorio de la enfermedad de los Legionarios en dos personas que estuvieron en Embassy Suites en 600 N. State St., en Chicago. Ambos pacientes han sido tratados y se están recuperando. Hasta el momento no se sabe si Embassy Suites fue la fuente de la bacteria que hizo que estas dos personas se enfermaran. Se están examinando los sitios posibles de exposición y la administración del hotel está cooperando de lo lleno con la investigación. No hay un riesgo inmediato para el público. La enfermedad de los Legionarios es un grave tipo de neumonía. La gente puede contagiarse de la enfermedad respirando pequeñas gotas de agua que contengan la bacteria Legionella. Los síntomas pueden incluir fiebre, tos, falta de respiración y fuertes dolores de cabeza. Si usted ha experimentado estos síntomas dentro de dos semanas de haber estado en Embassy Suites en el 600 N State St., comuníquese con su médico. Por recomendación de CDPH, Embassy Suites ha cerrado todas las tomas de agua mientras se hacen las pruebas y se está haciendo una profunda desinfección. Esto reducirá el riesgo de la enfermedad de los Legionarios, en caso de que hubiera alguna Legionella presente. Una vez expuesto a la bacteria Legionella, el riesgo de la enfermedad puede aumentar entre personas de 50 años en adelante, que fuman o que tienen ciertas condiciones médicas, como un sistema inmunológico debilitado. Cualquier persona con preguntas o dudas puede llamar a CDPH al 312-746-7425.
