Latinas and Breast Cancer

According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer among Latinas and the leading cause of cancer deaths in Latinas living in the U.S. Latinas are the fastest-growing minority in the U.S., however there are limited studies about breast cancer in Latinas in the U.S. According to the American Cancer Society the rates of breast cancer incidence and death are lower than non-Hispanic white women. Yet, Latinas present for care with more advanced stage breast cancers than non-Hispanic white women.

The American Cancer Society puts the number of Latinas diagnosed with breast cancer in 2015 at approximately 19,800, with estimated deaths from the disease at 2,800. Latinas tend to be less aware of breast cancer and their risk factors due to limited access to health care, language barriers, and a lack of knowledge about the healthcare system.

Possible Factors That Reduce Risk of Breast Cancer

Known possible factors that reduce the risk of breast cancer in Latinas when compared with non-Hispanic white women include, but are not limited to:

- Giving birth to a first child at a younger age and having larger families
- Breastfeeding, which is more commonly practiced by Hispanic/Latina women, especially those coming from other countries
- Less alcohol consumption

Possible Factors That Increase Risk of Breast Cancer

Some factors that may have contributed to their having an increased risk for breast cancer include:

- Being physically inactive
- Weight gain after 18

years-old

- Being obese or significantly overweight after menopause
- Breast cancer in the family
- Dense breasts
- Type 2 diabetes
- High bone mineral density

In an effort to reduce the incidence of Latinas presenting for care with late-stage breast cancers, then breast cancer awareness outreach needs to happen in communities where Latinas gather for meetings or social events, such as schools, houses of worship and community centers. Materials need to be in Spanish and community educators, preferably survivors, need to be an ethnic and cultural match to the women living in those communities, according to the American Cancer Society. Their message is for Latinas to know their risks for breast cancer. Get a mammogram regularly.

La Mujer Latina y el Cáncer de Mama

Por: Ashmar Mandou

De acuerdo a la Sociedad Estadounidense del Cáncer, el cáncer de mama es el cáncer más comunmente diagnosticado entre las mujeres latinas y la causa principal de muerte por cáncer en mujeres latinas que viven en E.U. Los latinos son la minoría de más rápido crecimiento en E.U., sin embargo hay estudios limitados sobre el cáncer de mama en la mujer latina en E.U. De acuerdo a la Sociedad Estadounidense del Cáncer, el índice de incidencia en cáncer de mama y muerte es más bajo que en las mujeres blancas no hispanas. La Sociedad Estadounidense del Cáncer pone el número de mujeres latinas diagnosticadas con cáncer de mama en el 2015 en aproximadamente 19,800, con muertes calculadas por la enfermedad en 2,800. La mujer latina tiende a estar menos conciente del cáncer de mama y sus factores de riesgo debido a un acceso limitado al cuidado de salud, las barreras de lenguaje y la falta de conocimiento sobre el sistema de cuidado de salud.

Posibles Factores que Reducen el Riesgo de Cáncer de Mama

Conocidos como posible factores que reducen el riesgo de cáncer de mama en las mujeres latinas cuando se compara con las mujeres blancas no hispanas, incluyen, pero no están limitados a:

- Tener un primer hijo a más temprana edad y tener una familia numerosa

- Amamantar, que es práctica común en la mujer hispana/latina, especialmente las que vienen de otros países

- Menos consumo de alcohol

Posibles Factores que Aumentan el Riesgo del Cáncer de Mama

Algunos factores que pueden haber contribuido a que tengan un aumento de riesgo al cáncer de mama incluyen:

- Estar físicamente inactivas
- Aumentar de peso después de los 18 años de edad
- Estar obesas o tener un considerable sobrepeso después de la menopausia
- Cáncer de mama en la familia
- Senos densos
- Diabetes Tipo 2
- Alta densidad mineral ósea

En un esfuerzo por

reducir la incidencia de la mujer latina a presentarse por atención médica en las últimas etapas del cáncer de mama, la concientización del cáncer de mama debe hacerse en comunidades donde las mujeres latinas se reúnen en juntas o eventos sociales, como escuelas, iglesias y centros comunitarios. Los materiales deben estar en español y los educadores comunitarios, preferiblemente sobrevivientes, deben ser semejantes, étnica y culturalmente a las mujeres que viven en esas comunidades, de acuerdo a la Sociedad Estadounidense del Cáncer. Su mensaje es para la mujer latina que conoce su riesgo a padecer cáncer de mama. Practíquese un mamograma con regularidad.

Student to Autograph Books at Oak Lawn Library

Aaron Hanania

High school Senior Aaron Hanania will autograph copies of his Science Fiction novel "The King's Pawn" at a writing discussion on Thursday night Oct. 25, 2018 at the Oak Lawn Library. A senior at Sandburg High school, Aaron Hanania wrote the 200-page novel this year using his iPhone while he was a junior. During his presentation at the Oak Lawn Library, Aaron Hanania will talk about how writing his book has helped him improve his school grades. He has maintained a Straight "A" average every year since 6th grade and is a member of the Sandburg Chapter of the National Honor Society. "I've been writing stories and working on several books since I was in 7th grade after listening to authors talk about their books and novels, and it inspired me to also want to write," Aaron Hanania, 17, said. Aaron Hanania, whose father is a former Chicago City Hall reporter, said that he learned at an early age that communications is one of the most important foundations of personal success. Although he says he is hoping to enter Law School, he said communications is important to every student and every profession. Aaron Hanania said he will discuss his ideas during the two-hour book signing at the Oak Lawn Library, 9427 Raymond Ave, Oak Lawn. The discussion will begin at 6 pm in Rotary Room A. For more information on Aaron Hanania's writings, visit his website at www.Aaron411News.com.

Tips for Filling Out FAFSA

By: Ashmar Mandou

October marks an important time for college-bound students as the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) for the 2018/2019 academic year becomes available. According to a recent Discover Student Loans survey, while 74 percent of parents say they are worried about having enough money to help pay for their child's college education, only 45 percent of parents filled out the FAFSA last year. Among the reasons parents don't complete the FAFSA is that they earn too much to be considered for financial aid. Another possible reason many parents and students fail to complete a FAFSA is completing the application is no simple task. In order to alleviate the process we are sharing some tips on filling out the FAFSA. Before you apply, gather the following important documents:

- Social Security numbers for students and parents, or Alien Registration Numbers for non-U.S. citizens.
 - Federal Student Aid (FSA) ID -create an FSA ID online, which gives you access to Federal Student Aid's online systems.
 - Driver's license or other eligible government ID
 - Tax returns for students and/or parents
 - Asset records such as bank statements and investments
 - Records of untaxed income, such as child support
 - Federal school codes for the schools you will apply to
- It is also helpful to avoid these common mistakes:
- Leaving blank fields—enter a '0' or 'not applicable' instead of leaving a blank. Too many blanks may cause miscalculations and an application rejection.
 - Using commas or decimal points in numeric fields—always round to the nearest dollar.

- Entering the wrong federal income tax paid amount—obtain your federal income tax paid amount from your income tax return forms, not your W-2 form(s).
- Listing Adjusted Gross Income as equal to total income—these are not the same figure. In most cases, the AGI is larger than the total income. This mistake is particularly common. The deadline to submit the 2018/2019 FAFSA is midnight Central Time on June 30th, 2019, but do not wait until the final hour to complete the form. The official FAFSA website is fafsa.gov and it is always free to complete the application.

comes on the heels of the health board's decision to expand the program next year to also include School District 98, with votes from BP Health District Board Members David J. Avila, Elizabeth A. Pechous and Margaret M. Paul voting yes for approval of renewal of the program. Studies show a child's vision is essential to his or her success in school. When a child's vision suffers, often their schoolwork does, too. The size of print in schoolbooks becomes smaller and the amount of time spent reading and studying increases significantly. The Eyes for Education Program, which began March 1st, 2017, was created to combat disparities in our communities by specifically targeting second grade children; followed by any student that failed the initial general eye exam given at the schools in Berwyn School District 100. The Eyes for Education Program allows elementary school students who have failed the mandatory school screening to be evaluated by an optometrist/ophthalmologist. The students then pick out their frames and within a few weeks receive a pair of glasses that allows them to excel in the classroom. These glasses are sent to the student's school. The BPHD voted to renew the Eyes for Education Program and expand the program beyond the Berwyn South School District 100 to serve students in district 98. The program's goal is to serve 500 youth.

Health Care Has a Language All Its Own. Here's a Tool That Helps You Learn to Speak It

By: Colleen Van Ham, CEO, UnitedHealthcare of Illinois

A lot of people try to do things like learn a new word every day to improve their vocabulary. However, they often neglect their health care vocabulary. That's too bad, because how well someone speaks the language of health care can affect their health. A person's ability to understand information about their health care and health insurance coverage is often referred to as their level of health literacy. One important aspect of this literacy is understanding the complicated language of health care and health benefits. This is crucial to making well-informed health care decisions.

Low health literacy is not a permanent trait. It is a state that can be changed through education.

However, just because someone is well educated doesn't mean they have a high level of health literacy. In fact, health literacy depends upon many different factors. For example, a person may have no problem understanding their doctor when they are feeling well. But if they are sick, tired or stressed, it may be difficult for them to understand what their doctor is saying.

Fortunately, there are some simple tools available that can help boost health literacy, no matter the situation. One of the tools developed to help people improve their health literacy is the Just Plain Clear Glossary. This searchable online glossary contains common health care and health insurance terms in clear, plain language.

These days people are being asked to make more of their own decisions about their health care, so they need a better understanding of some pretty complex words and concepts. Initially we didn't have a good resource to define complicated medical or insurance terms in plain language. So that's why we developed our Glossary.

Studies show poor health literacy can negatively affect both a patient's well-being and pocketbook. Patients with low health literacy are more likely to suffer from conditions like diabetes, high blood pressure and high cholesterol. They are less likely to benefit from the treatment they receive for health problems. When they are admitted to the hospital, people with lower health literacy are more likely to have longer stays, and they are more likely to be readmitted after they are discharged.

Low health literacy also costs our economy, as much as $238 billion annually by some estimates. People can make poor decisions when they can't understand things like how often they need to take their medication or how much they are responsible for paying at a doctors' visit. These poor decisions can cost them, and all of us, more money.

When the Just Plain Clear Glossary launched in 2013, it contained about 2,500 commonly used medical and insurance terms in both English and Spanish. Today, it contains over 12,000 terms defined in easy to understand language, and each term now includes a definition in English, Spanish and Portuguese.

Just Plain Clear Glossary breaks down barriers and is enhancing communication between health care professionals and patients. Some health care professionals have used it to explain certain concepts to their patients. Patients have shared that the Glossary makes it easier to understand things their health care providers tell them.

Perhaps most importantly, unlike some online resources, the Just Plain Clear Glossary serves as a trusted source of information. Volunteers who work in various capacities for UnitedHealth Group are specially trained to write in plain language and submit entries to the glossary. Entries are then reviewed for accuracy by appropriate experts like physicians, nurses, psychologists, attorneys, dentists, pharmacists and others before being posted online. Improving health literacy is an important part of empowering people to live a healthier life.

Fortunately, there are some simple tools available that can help boost health literacy, no matter the situation. One of the tools developed to help people improve their health literacy is the Just Plain Clear Glossary. This searchable online glossary contains common health care and health insurance terms in clear, plain language.

La capacidad de una persona de entender la información sobre su cuidado de salud y su cobertura de salud muchas veces se le llama el nivel de conocimiento en salud. El Cuidado de Salud Tiene un Lenguaje...

Viene de la página 10

salud. Esto es crucial para tomar decisiones bien informadas sobre el cuidado de nuestra salud. El poco conocimiento en salud no es un rasgo permanente. Es un estado que se puede cambiar a través de la educación.

Sin embargo, solo porque alguien está bien educado no significa que tenga un nivel alto de conocimiento de salud. De hecho, el conocimiento de salud depende de muy diferentes factores. Por ejemplo, una persona puede no tener problemas para entender a su doctor cuando se siente bien, pero si está enfermo, cansado o estresado, le puede ser difícil entender lo que le dice.

Afortunadamente hay medios sencillos disponibles que pueden ayudarlo a mejorar su conocimiento de salud, sin importar la situación. Uno de los medios desarrollados para ayudar a la gente a mejorar su conocimiento de salud es simplemente Un Glosario Claro. Este glosario, disponible en línea, contiene términos de cuidados de salud y seguros de salud en un lenguaje sencillo y claro.

Estos días se le pide a la gente que tome sus propias decisiones sobre su cuidado de salud, por lo que necesita entender mejor algunas palabras y conceptos bastante complejos. Inicialmente no teníamos un buen recurso para definir términos médicos complicados sobre seguros en un lenguaje sencillo. Por eso mismo desarrollamos nuestro Glosario.

Estudios muestran que un pobre conocimiento sobre la salud puede afectar en forma negativa el bienestar y el bolsillo de un paciente. Los pacientes con un bajo conocimiento de salud es más probable que sufran de condiciones como la diabetes, la alta presión arterial y el colesterol alto. Es menos probable que se beneficien del tratamiento que reciben por problemas de salud. Cuando son admitidos en un hospital, la gente con poco conocimiento sobre la salud es probable que esté más días en el hospital y más probable que sean readmitidos después de haber sido dados de alta.

El poco conocimiento sobre la salud es también un costo para nuestra economía, tanto como $238 mil millones al año según calculan algunos. La gente puede tomar malas decisiones cuando no entienden cosas como con cuánta frecuencia necesitan tomar su medicina o de cuánto son responsables por el costo de la visita al doctor. Estas malas decisiones pueden costarles dinero, a ellos y a todos nosotros.

Cuando se inició (Un Glosario Claro) [Just Plain Clear Glossary] en el 2013, contenía aproximadamente 2,500 términos utilizados comúnmente en oficinas médicas y seguros, tanto en inglés como en español. Hoy, contiene más de 12,000 términos, definidos en un lenguaje fácil y entendible y cada término incluye ahora una definición en inglés, español y portugués.

Un Glosario Claro rompe las barreras y amplía la comunicación entre los profesionales de cuidado de salud y los pacientes. Algunos profesionales de cuidado de salud lo han usado para explicar ciertos conceptos a sus pacientes. Los pacientes han compartido que el Glosario les facilita entender las cosas que el médico dice sobre su salud.

Tal vez lo más importante, a diferencia de algunos recursos en línea, Just Plain Clear Glossary sirve como una fuente confiable de información. Los voluntarios que trabajan en varias capacidades para UnitedHealth Group están especialmente entrenados para escribir en lenguaje sencillo y enviar las participaciones al glosario. Las participaciones son entonces revisadas por su exactitud por expertos apropiados, como doctores, enfermeros, psicólogos, abogados, dentistas, farmacéuticos y otros antes de ser puestos en línea. Mejorar el conocimiento de salud es una parte importante para hacer que la gente lleve una vida más saludable.

Pilsen's El Paseo Community Garden Received $25K donation at Harvesting Health

Chef Alberto Gonzalez of Chicago's 90 Miles Cuban Café and Café Bustelo® Coffee came together on September 22nd to promote education through food at El Paseo Community Garden's Harvesting Health: Fall Festival. During the festival, Chef Gonzalez presented a $25,000 donation on behalf of Café Bustelo and shared an interactive cooking demo using the garden's actual home grown produce. In addition to supporting various educational programs and resources for neighborhood residents, strengthening their environmental stewardship and civic engagement in Chicago's Pilsen neighborhood, the donation will also help launch El Paseo Community Garden's first Pilsen Chef and Kids Educational Enrichment Program, as well as build a brand-new student café to host educational workshops and provide a positive learning environment to the Latino youth.
