The City announced it will reinstate COVID-19 restrictions for bars, restaurants, gyms, and persona services as a precautionary move in response to a heightened number of cases across Chicago. The reinstatement of certain restrictions will go into effect Friday, July 24 at 12:01 a.m., in order to allow businesses time to prepare. Restrictions will include:

- Bars, taverns, breweries and other establishments that serve alcohol for on-site consumption without a Retail Food license will no longer be able to serve customers indoors.
- Maximum party size and table occupancy at restaurants, bars, taverns and breweries will be reduced to six people.
- Indoor fitness class size will be reduced to a maximum of 10 people.
- Personal services requiring the removal of face coverings will no longer be permitted (shaves, facials, etc.).
- Residential property managers will be asked to limit guest entry to five per unit to avoid indoor gatherings and parties. As the Chicago Department of Public Health (CDPH) recently announced, the city is back in a high-incidence state under Centers for Disease Control guidelines after topping 200 cases per day on a 7-day rolling average. As of Sunday, July 19, that number was 233. That increase has been driven in part by rising cases among young people 18-29 years old as the city has seen more social activity and interactions in bars, restaurants, parks and the lakefront. "No one relishes making this move but it's the right thing to do as we work to prevent a resurgence of COVID-19 similar to what we're seeing in many states around the country," said CDPH Commissioner Allison Arwady, M.D. "This virus has had a disproportionate impact on Black and Latinx individuals, many of whom are essential workers who have continued to go to work, and we can't afford to see a resurgence that would mean more cases and more deaths.

"Over the past few months, businesses and residents from every corner of this city have stepped up to follow our public health guidelines and restrictions so that Chicago could safely and responsibly reopen," said BACP Commissioner Rosa Escareño. "We will continue to keep data and science as the north stars of our work, which is why these new restrictions are designed to preserve the positive progress we've made so far and ensure Chicago can stay one of the most open large cities in the nation."

La Ciudad Restablece las Restricciones de COVID-19

Por: Ashmar Mandou

La Ciudad anunció que restablecerá las restricciones de COVID-19 para bares, restaurantes, gimnasios y servicios personales como medida preventiva en respuesta a un mayor número de casos en Chicago. El restablecimiento de ciertas restricciones entrará en vigencia el viernes 24 de julio a las 12:01 a.m., para dar tiempo a las empresas a prepararse. Las restricciones incluirán:

Los bares, tabernas, cervecerías y otros establecimientos que sirven alcohol para consumo en el lugar sin una licencia de Retail Food ya no podrán servir a los clientes en interiores.

El tamaño máximo de la fiesta y la ocupación de la mesa en restaurantes, bares, tabernas y cervecerías se reducirá a seis personas. El tamaño de la clase de acondicionamiento físico en interiores se reducirá a un máximo de 10 personas. Ya no se permitirán los servicios personales que requieran la eliminación de las cubiertas faciales (afeitados, tratamientos faciales, etc.).

Se les pedirá a los administradores de propiedades residenciales que limiten la entrada de invitados a cinco por unidad para evitar reuniones y fiestas en interiores.

Como anunció recientemente el Departamento de Salud Pública de Chicago (CDPH), la ciudad está de vuelta en un estado de alta incidencia bajo las pautas de los Centros para el Control de Enfermedades después de superar 200 casos por día en un promedio móvil de 7 días. Hasta el domingo 19 de julio, ese número era 233. Ese aumento ha sido impulsado en parte por el aumento de casos entre jóvenes de 18 a 29 años de edad, ya que la ciudad ha visto más actividad social e interacciones en bares, restaurantes, parques y el lago.

"Nadie disfruta hacer este movimiento, pero es lo correcto mientras trabajamos para evitar un resurgimiento de COVID-19 similar a lo que estamos viendo en muchos estados del país", dijo la comisionada de CDPH, Allison Arwady, MD "Este virus ha tenido un impacto desproporcionado en las personas negras y latinas, muchas de las cuales son trabajadores esenciales que han seguido trabajando, y no podemos permitirnos ver un resurgimiento que signifique más casos y más muertes.

"En los últimos meses, las empresas y los residentes de todos los rincones de esta ciudad han dado un paso al frente para seguir nuestras pautas y restricciones de salud pública para que Chicago pueda reabrir de manera segura y responsable", dijo la comisionada de BACP, Rosa Escareño. "Continuaremos manteniendo los datos y la ciencia como las estrellas del norte de nuestro trabajo, razón por la cual estas nuevas restricciones están diseñadas para preservar el progreso positivo que hemos logrado hasta ahora y garantizar que Chicago pueda seguir siendo una de las grandes ciudades más abiertas del mundo".

Comcast NBCUniversal Awards Scholarships to High School Seniors

Comcast NBCUniversal announced it has awarded $175,000 in scholarships for the 2020-2021 school year as part of its annual Leaders and Achievers Scholarship Program to 70 students in its Greater Chicago Region, which includes Central and Northern Illinois, Northwest Indiana and Southwest Michigan. Students are selected for their outstanding community service, academic performance and leadership skills. The award, funded by the Comcast NBCUniversal

City Council Approves New Police Reforms

By: Ashmar Mandou

City Council approved various police reforms Wednesday afternoon that would now allow for anonymous complaints to be investigated, ending the requirement of destroying disciplinary records, preventing the names of complainants from being revealed to officers in a bid to create accountability and transparency within the Chicago Police Department.

"For years, I have fought for reforms that would further ensure accountability and transparency at every level of the police department. As mayor, I have not only prioritized these efforts but doubled down on our reform commitments, which is why today's ruling represents such a critical step forward in our path toward building a stronger police department and creating a safer Chicago for all," said Mayor Lightfoot. "Today's historic win represents years of efforts to ensure our Chicago's police union contracts represent the values of our officers and the residents they serve. We will continue fighting for these same reforms as well as other measures in our ongoing negotiations with the FOP."

The approval by City Council comes after years of negotiating with the police supervisors' unions on reform measures that the mayor has campaigned since she led the Police Accountability Task Force (PATF). In addition, the City and union resolved a host of issues through bargained agreements. The terms approved on Wednesday echoes genuine input from the unions and efforts by the City to ensure the agreement strikes a balance between accountability, transparency and supervisors' needs for reasonable procedural safeguards.

"These reforms and new measures represent not only the values of our city but also those of the Chicago Police Department," said Chicago Police Superintendent David O. Brown. "The first step to building trust between officers and the communities they serve is ensuring accountability and transparency is reflected within our police contracts. Today's passage by City Council will ensure just that."

The changes will now include investigations into anonymous complaints against police supervisors. For the last 40 years, the governing contracts excluded investigations of potentially meritorious complaints of misconduct solely because they were anonymous. Both the PATF report and the Department of Justice's (DOJ) findings on CPD noted that this provision in police contracts had not only discouraged the reporting of officer misconduct, but also reaffirmed fears of retaliation for reporting complaints against police officers. By ensuring that the City has the power to investigate such complaints, the latest measure aligns CPD with other major police departments from across the nation.

"This is a historic win for not only Chicagoans but the men and women of the Chicago Police Department," said Ald. Chris Taliaferro, (29th Ward), Chair of the Public Safety Committee. "For years, Mayor Lightfoot has devoted her career to implementing real reforms within the police department and today is a testament to her commitment and renowned leadership on this issue."

Berwyn Police Dept. to Conduct Roadside Safety Checks

The Berwyn Police Department will be issuing additional citations in the overnight hours. This campaign will feature high visibility enforcement combined with a variety of outreach activities including additional law enforcement activity. Extra emphasis will be given to the late night hours when statistics show the most people drink and drive and the fewest buckle up. On July 24, 2020 The Berwyn Police Department will be conducting a Roadside Safety Check at Ogden and East. The costs of driving impaired or unbuckled are high both financially and emotionally when crashes occur. The Berwyn Police Department is stepping up late night enforcement efforts making sure impaired drivers are off the road and motorists are buckled up.

Living Life in Limbo

With schools set to open in just a few weeks and numbers continuing to rise throughout the United States, parents across Chicagoland are struggling with what to do. Most schools have already released their plans with many offering both in-school and remote options but the burden is intense.

"We have never seen anything of this enormity in modern times where it affects everyone, in every neighborhood, every town, every city, every state. COVID-19 has touched every single person in the US, whether they want to for teachers as well. Yes, this is their job, a job they love but they also want to protect themselves and their loved ones as well and rightfully so," adds Prasad.

According to a recent poll by the Kaiser Family Foundation, 4 in 10 Americans are experiencing both worry and stress directly related to the coronavirus and 31 percent of have reported at least some difficulty in paying their bills.

"Is there a perfect answer, absolutely not. But it is important to remember to continue take that time for yourself as we move admit it or not. Our lives have been completely upended. Normal is non-existent," says Dr. Pavan Prasad, founder of Chicago's Clarity Clinic.

While new information about the coronavirus surfaces each day, a new study out of South Korea shows those ages 10-19 can spread it just as well as adults. Those findings suggest if schools reopen communities will see clusters of infection and that has many worried. "Although the risk seems to be considerably low right now for children catching the virus, they are not immune. In addition, to bringing it home to family members they could also potentially infect teachers and staff. You must consider the amount of weight not only parents are carrying right now but forward. Whether that looks like stepping into the bathroom and locking the door behind you to take a 2-minute break to breathe and calm your thoughts, calling a supportive friend and/or family member, talking a walk, watching your favorite show after the kids have gone to bed. Anything that you can do to calm that anxiety in the moment, to be mindful and present. Many of us have heard the phrase "one day at a time" our entire lives, that phrase was made for this time. We will get through this together, one day at a time," says Prasad.

If you are feeling hopeless right now or simply need someone to listen, please seek professional help. Though patients are not able to be seen in an office setting right now, professionals are still available via telehealth.
