Chicago Park District Receives Grant to Develop Nutrition and Health Hubs in Parks

Chicago Park District, in partnership with the National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA), has received an $80,000 grant to develop a community nutrition hub to expand access to healthy foods through park and recreation programs and services. This is part of a $2.5 million grant NRPA received from the Walmart Foundation to build capacity in park and recreation agencies across the country and serve as intentional community nutrition hubs that improve health outcomes for community members. The grant will support the Park District's efforts to increase access to healthy foods, nutrition education and wellness opportunities through established connections with Chicago agencies serving food, including Chicago Public Schools and the Chicago Greater Food Depository.

NRPA seeks to expand the role and capacity of local parks and recreation to improve food access across diverse communities and generations by piloting and evaluating four strategies:

- Increase access to healthy foods in low income areas through federally funded nutrition programs through parks and partners;
- Implement diverse models as well as analyze and share best practices for parks and recreation to serve as nutrition hubs, including screening for food insecurity and providing SNAP/WIC enrollment and retention assistance, establishing referral systems, hosting farmers markets and accepting benefits, and offering intergenerational health literacy and meal programs;

- Provide evidence-based nutrition literacy resources that will reduce food insecurity and create behavior change, including increased consumption and preparation of fruits and vegetables and increase confidence in healthy decision-making; and
- Disseminate information about healthy meals and access to food through our established communication outlets.

Celebrando a la Mujer en la Semana de la Construcción

Un reciente estudio muestra que las mujeres que trabajan están experimentando los peores efectos de la recesión porque las industrias que las que tendían a trabajar fueron golpeadas más fuerte por los efectos de la pandemia del COVID-19. Cinco millones de mujeres han perdido o dejados sus trabajos el año pasado. En diciembre del 2020 solo, la economía de

E.U. perdió 140,000 empleos – todos ellos ocupados anteriormente por mujeres. No hay mejor momento para que la mujer considere una carrera en la construcción, donde la escasez de fuerza laboral es una preocupación constante y está en demanda nuevo talento para reconstruir nuestra economía y nuestra infraestructura en ruinas. Illinois solo, necesita más de 200,000 Profesionales calificados. Aunque las mujeres en la fuerza laboral de E.U. ganan un promedio de 81.10 por ciento de lo que ganan sus compañeros varones, la brecha de paga de género en el sector de construcción es casi inexistente, donde las mujeres ganan un 99.1 por ciento comparado a los varones. En Illinois, el salario anual para un obrero de la construcción es de $60,500, y un carpintero gana en promedio $66,720. En ABC Illinois, están comprometidos a reclutar y adiestrar a las mujeres para que puedan continuar desarrollando una diversa e inclusive industria de la construcción. Para más información sobre oportunidades de carreras en construcción durante la Mujer en la Semana de la Construcción del 2021, 7-13 de marzo, visite ABCIL.org.

El Distrito de Parques de Chicago Recibe una Subvención para Desarrollar Centros de Nutrición y Salud en los Parques

El Distrito de Parques de Chicago en asociación con National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA), recibió un subsidio de $80,000 para desarrollar un centro de nutrición comunitario para ampliar el acceso a alimentos saludables a través de servicios y programas de recreo del parque. Esto es parte de un subsidio de $2.5 millones a NRPA recibido de Walmart Foundation para construir capacidad en parques y agencias de recreación en todo el país y sirve como centros intencionales de nutrición comunitaria para mejorar los resultados de salud de los miembros de la comunidad. El subsidio respaldará los esfuerzos del Distrito de Parques para aumentar el acceso a alimentos saludables, educación sobre nutrición y oportunidades de bienestar a través de conexiones establecidas con agencias de Chicago que sirven alimentos, incluyendo las Escuelas Públicas de Chicago y Chicago Greater Food Depository. NRPA busca ampliar el papel y la capacidad de los parques y recreaciones locales para mejorar el acceso a alimentos a través de comunidades diversas y generaciones, piloteando y evaluando cuatro estrategias:

- Aumentar el acceso a alimentos saludables en

- áreas de bajos ingresos a través de programas de nutrición de fondos federales, a través de parques y asociados;
- Implementar modelos diversos, así como analizar y compartir las mejores prácticas para que parques y lugares de recreación sirvan como centros de nutrición, incluida la detección de inseguridad alimentaria y la prestación de asistencia para la inscripción y retención en SNAP / WIC, el establecimiento de sistemas de referencia, la organización de mercados de agricultores y la aceptación de beneficios, y la oferta de programas de alimentación

- y alfabetización en salud intergeneracional;
- Proporcionar recursos de alfabetización nutricional basados en evidencia que reducirán la inseguridad alimentaria y generarán cambios de comportamiento, incluido un mayor consumo y preparación de frutas y verduras y aumentarán la confianza en la toma de decisiones saludables; y
- Difundir información sobre comidas saludables y acceso a alimentos a través de nuestros canales de comunicación establecidos.

State Representatives, Senators Urge Lightfoot to Deny General Iron Permit

By: Ashmar Mandou

A joint letter with over 20 Illinois state legislators from the Chicagoland area urged Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot on Wednesday to deny RMG subsidiary, General Iron's, requested operation permit. The letter is the latest in a series of public officials expressing opposition to the relocation of General Iron from the city's Northside Lincoln Park neighborhood to the Southeast side. The letter reads, "General Iron, a subsidiary of RMG, has proven with its decades long history in Lincoln Park that it is a public health threat. From toxic fluff pollution to the overly common occurrence of fires & explosions, this facility has repeatedly violated state environmental regulations, and has been forced to shut down by the City of Chicago itself numerous times."

"I have always stood strong for and supported environmental justice efforts; therefore, my support is with the passionate advocates and families of my community who have real concerns. The citizens of the Southeast side of Chicago deserve the best and I believe that they want imaginative development that creates economic activity and jobs while healing the environmental justice scars of the past," said Assistant Majority Leader Marcus C. Evans, Jr. who represents the Southeast side. Wednesday's letter comes six days after activists in Chicago's Southeast Side concluded a month-long hunger strike to bring attention to the community's opposition to the proposed relocation of General Iron. Several weeks into the hunger strike, Mayor Lightfoot responded to the demands of a growing number of hunger striking community members, acknowledging the legacy of environmental racism on the city's Southeast side, but stopped short of meeting their demands and committing to deny the permit.

The City and Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) are both under federal investigation for the granting of air and construction permits. Residents critique the city's environmental regulations for failing to address critical siting issues in the first instance.

"Residents are expressing concern with a lax set of proposed regulations that themselves do not require fully enclosing toxic material and that water down air monitoring requirements, in contrast to what the city requires for other similar facilities. They also critique the environmental regulations for failing to address critical siting issues in the first instance. Southeast Siders say these unresolved issues and weak regulations are reasons to hold off issuing any further approvals or allowing any construction for the proposed new Southeast Side facility. CDPH has authority under City ordinances to deny the permit and must do so," stated a member of the Natural Resources Defense Council.

The right '5-a-day' Health Plan for Longer Life

Studies representing nearly two million adults worldwide show that eating about five daily servings of fruits and vegetables, in which two are fruits and three are vegetables, is likely the optimal amount for a longer life, according to new research published in the American Heart Association's flagship journal Circulation. Diets rich in fruits and vegetables help reduce risk for numerous chronic health conditions that are leading causes of death, including cardiovascular disease and cancer. Yet, only about one in 10 adults eat enough fruits or vegetables, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Analysis of all studies, with a composite of more than two million participants, revealed:

- Intake of about five servings of fruits and vegetables daily was associated with the lowest risk of death. Eating more than five servings was not associated with additional benefit.
- Eating about two servings daily of fruits and three servings daily of vegetables was associated with the greatest longevity.
- Not all foods that one might consider to be fruits and vegetables offered the same benefits. For example: Starchy vegetables, such as peas and corn, fruit juices and potatoes were not associated with reduced risk of death from all causes or specific chronic diseases.

•On the other hand, green leafy vegetables, including spinach, lettuce and kale, and fruit and vegetables rich in beta carotene and vitamin C, such as citrus fruits, berries and carrots, showed benefits.

Celebrating Women in Construction Week

A recent study shows working women are experiencing the worst effects of the recession because the industries they tend to work in are harder hit by the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. Five million women have lost or left their jobs in the past year. In December 2020 alone, the U.S. economy lost 140,000 jobs—all of them previously held by women. There is no better time for women to consider a career in construction, where workforce shortages are a constant concern and new talent is in demand to rebuild our economy and crumbling infrastructure. Illinois alone has the need for over 200,000 skilled craft professionals. While women in the U.S. workforce earn an average of 81.1 percent of what their male counterparts make, the gender pay gap in the construction sector is almost nonexistent, with women earning an average of 99.1 percent compared to men. In Illinois, the annual salary for a construction Craft Laborer is $60,500, and a Carpenter averages $66,720. At ABC Illinois, they are committed to recruiting and upskilling women so we can continue to develop a diverse and inclusive construction industry. Representantes Estatales y Senadores Instan a Lightfoot a Denegar el Permiso a General Iron

Por: Ashmar Mandou

Una carta conjunta con más de 20 legisladores del estado de Illinois del área de Chicago instó el miércoles a la alcaldesa de Chicago, Lori Lightfoot, a denegar el permiso de operación solicitado a la subsidiaria de RMG, General Iron's. La carta es la última de una serie de oficios públicos expresando oposición a la reubicación de General Iron del barrio Lincoln Park del Norte de la ciudad al sector Sudeste.

La carta dice, "General Iron, subsidiario de RMG, ha probado con sus décadas de larga historia en Lincoln Park, que es una amenaza para la salud pública. De la contaminación tóxica de pelusa a la ocurrencia demasiado común de incendios y explosiones, esta instalación ha violado repetidamente las regulaciones ambientales estatales, y se ha visto obligado a cerrar por la ciudad de Chicago en sí en numerosas ocasiones." "Siempre me he mantenido firme y apoyado los esfuerzos de justicia ambiental; por lo tanto, mi apoyo es para los defensores apasionados y las familias de mi comunidad que tienen una verdadera preocupación. Los ciudadanos del sector Sudeste de Chicago merecen lo mejor y creo que desean una urbanización imaginativa que cree actividad económica y empleos mientras cura las cicatrices de justicia ambiental del pasado, dijo el Asistente al Líder de las Mayorías, Marcus C. Evans, Jr., que representa al sector Sudeste.

La carta del miércoles llega seis días después que activistas del Sector Sudeste de Chicago concluyeran una huelga de hambre de un mes de duración para llamar la atención de la oposición de la comunidad a la propuesta reubicación de General Iron. Después de varias semanas en la huelga de hambre, la Alcaldesa Lightfoot respondió a las demandas de un creciente número de miembros de la comunidad en huelga de hambre, reconociendo el legado de racismo ambiental en el Sector Sudeste de la ciudad, pero no cumplió con sus demandas y se comprometió a denegar el permiso.

La Ciudad y la Agencia

de Protección al Ambiente de Illinois (IEPA) están ambas bajo investigación federal para la concesión de permisos aéreos y de construcción. Los residentes critican las regulaciones ambientales de la ciudad por no atender problemas críticos en primera instancia.

"Los residentes están expresando preocupación por un conjunto laxo de regulaciones propuestas que en sí mismas no requieren que se encierre completamente el material tóxico y que diluyen los requisitos de monitoreo del aire, en contraste con lo que la ciudad requiere para otras capacidades similares. También critican las regulaciones ambientales por no abordar los problemas críticos de ubicación en primera instancia. Los Southeast Siders dicen que estos problemas sin resolver y las regulaciones débiles son razones para posponer la emisión de más aprobaciones o permitir cualquier construcción para la nueva instalación propuesta del Sector Sudeste. CDPH tiene la autoridad bajo las ordenanzas de la Ciudad para denegar el permiso y debe hacerlo", afirmó un miembro del Consejo de Defensa de los Recursos Naturales.
