City of Chicago will soon kick-off Mexican Independence Day and Hispanic Heritage Month celebrations featuring parades, live music, art exhibits, and public art tours. During a time of political strife and uncertainty this past year due to federal immigration enforcement crackdowns, city officials and organizations are coming together to remind residents of the importance of unity and strength. Mexican Independence Day Celebrations Kick Off

By: Ashmar Mandou

City officials and community leaders outlined plans for Chicago residents to have a safe and family-friendly weekend of Mexican Independence Day celebrations across Chicago. This weekend marks the largest cultural events from El Grito Chicago Festival in Grant Park on Saturday, Sept. 12th, and Sunday, Sept. 13th, and the 55th Annual 26th Street Mexican Independence Day Parade on Sunday, Sept. 13th.

The safety guidelines were shared during a press conference Tuesday hosted by event organizers Jennifer Aguilar of the Little Village Chamber of Commerce and Korina Sanchez of El Grito Chicago, joined by Mayor Brandon Johnson, Interim Superintendent Fred Waller of the Chicago Police Department, and Ambassador Reyna Torres Mendivil of the Consulate General of Mexico in Chicago.

“As our city honors the rich culture of our Mexican American community our officers will be working to secure the planned celebrations, as well as all of our communities across the city,” said Chicago Police Department Interim Superintendent

Fred Waller. “We have been preparing alongside our City partners to ensure sufficient resources are in place to keep our residents and visitors safe as they celebrate throughout the next week.”

The 2026 parade, presented by the Little Village Chamber of Commerce, steps off Sunday, September 13, at 12p.m. at the historic Little Village Arch, 26th Street and Albany Avenue, and proceeds down 26th Street to Kostner Avenue. Now in its 55th year, it is one of the largest parades in the Midwest, drawing more than 400,000 residents, visitors, and participants along the two-and-a-half-mile Little Village

Immigration Enforcement Leads to Economic Downfall in Cook County

Caption by Ashmar Mandou

A report from the University of Illinois Chicago said immigration enforcement led to $1.26 billion in revenue loss at retail establishments and restaurants in Cook County. The report entitled, Hunkering Down: The Hidden Economic Cost of Federal Immigration Enforcement in Cook County, IL, released this week, examined how heightened federal immigration enforcement beginning in January 2025 affected travel and commercial activity across Cook County. Using weekly foot-traffic data, researchers found that cross-community visits to retail businesses fell by roughly 9 percent and restaurant visits by roughly 10 percent, while visits to businesses in high Latin America-born neighborhoods remained largely unchanged. Researchers estimate that the lessening in cross-community trips corresponded to approximately $1.26 billion in foregone retail and restaurant activity over the first year of heightened enforcement and approximately $107 million in foregone local sales-tax revenue. Researchers said that drop has continued even after federal immigration crackdowns have decreased.

La Aplicación de las Leyes de Inmigración Provocan Declive Económico en el Condado de Cook

Por Ashmar Mandou

Un reporte de la Universidd de Illinois Chicago dice que la aplicación de las leyes de inmigración han llevado a la pérdida de $1260 millones de dólares en ingresos a los establecimientos y restaurants en el Condado de Cook. El reporte titulado Hunkering Down: The Hidden Economic Cost of Federal Immigration Enforcemen in Cook County, IL, [A la defensiva: El costo económico oculto de la aplicación de las leyes federales de inmigración en el condado de Cook, Illinois], publicado esta semana, se examinó cómo el endurecimiento de la aplicación de las leyes federales de inmigración, a partir de enero de 2025, afectaron los desplazamientos y la actividad comercial en todo el condado de Cook. Utilizando los datos de tráfico peatonal semanal, los investigadores encontraron que las visitas entre comunidades a establecimientos comerciales disminuyeron aproximadamente un 9 % y las visitas a restaurantes, cerca de un 10 %, mientras que las visitas a negocios en vecindarios con una alta proporción de residentes nacidos en América Latina se mantuvieron prácticamente sin cambios. Los investigadores estiman que la reducción de los desplazamientos entre comunidades equivalió a aproximadamente 1260 millones de dólares en actividad comercial y de restauración no realizada durante el primer año de mayor fiscalización, y a unos 107 millones de dólares en ingresos fiscales locales por ventas que se dejaron de percibir. Los investigadores dicen que la baja ha continuado incluso después de que han disminuido las enérgicas medidas federales contra la inmigración.

“For 55 years, the 26th Street Parade has been one of the proudest traditions in Little Village,” said Jennifer Aguilar, executive director of the Little Village Chamber of Commerce. “Whether you’ve marched in this parade for decades or you’re joining us for the very first time, there is a place for you on 26th Street.” This year’s theme, “United We Ride: Stronger Than Ever” (Unidos Cabalgamos: Más Fuertes que Nunca).

El Grito marks its return after a 2025 pause due to community safety amid political climate and the rise of federal immigration enforcement crackdowns. “Bringing this festival back is a statement in itself: that our community’s traditions endure, and that we will always find a way to come together, safely and proudly,” said Korina Sanchez, organizer of El Grito Chicago. The weekend will also include a free Civic Ceremony honoring the tradition of El Grito de Independencia, beginning after 8:00 p.m. Sunday, September 13, in Grant Park. The ceremony is free and open to all, and will be streamed live for anyone unable to attend in person.

El desfile del 2026, presentado por la Cámara de Comercio de La Villita, baja el domingo, 13 de septiembre a las 12 p.m. en el histórico Arco de La Villita en la Calle 26 y Albany Ave., y sigue hacia la Ave. Kostner. Ahora en su año 55º, es uno de los más largos desfiles del Medio Oeste, atrayendo a más de 400,000 residentes, visitantes y participantes a lo largo de las dos y medio millas del corredor comercial de La Villita, con flotillas, bandas de mariachi, grupos de baile

The Mayan Written Language

By Daniel Nardini

Long before any European had ever set foot in the Americas, some Native Amerindian peoples were not only building great cities and highly complex societies, but some evolved very sophisticated writing systems. One such civilization were the Mayan city states. In many ways, the Mayans were like the ancient Greeks; they were not a unified people or unified state. They were many city states with shared cultures, a shared religion, a shared language, and a shared writing system. This writing system developed over centuries, and is unlike any other on earth. The Mayan writing system is not just a system of record keeping of kings, dynasties or family lineages but also of the seasons, the sciences, the epochs in the Mayan calendar, and their trade inventory. The last point is important. Trade was the life blood of the Mayan city states, and their trade networks stretched well beyond Mesoamerica into parts of South America and into what is the southwestern United States. All of this information was recorded by Mayan scribes as a tribute to the greatness of their city states. The Mayan writing described battles, droughts, and succession of rulers. The Mayans made meticulous records of just about everything they did.

The truly tragic part is that the early Spanish missionaries burned an unknown number of Mayan written books that might have told us more of what the Mayans knew. In the last few centuries, more Mayan written books as well as temples bearing Mayan glyph have helped archaeologists as well as historians piece together the world of the Mayans in the Classic period between 250 to 900 CE (Common Era). Many have wondered why the era of the Classic Mayan civilization fell by 900 CE. From the Mayan writings now available and also archaeology of the former Mayan cities of the classic period, there was no one thing that brought the classic Mayan city states down. There were a number of disasters which ended the classic period. These included war, internal revolts, drought and famine, and many of the city states no longer had the capacity to provide for their own peoples. Even though the Classic Mayan civilization fell, some of the Mayan city states did not. Some like Chichen Itza and Mayapan continued into the era of the arrival of the Spanish in 1539. The writing system of the Mayans continued long after the Classic period had ended. What the Mayans had built in the Classic period did not end with the Classic period. The Mayan calendar, the most accurate such system until the 20th Century, was still in use by Mayan city states for centuries.

The religious beliefs of the Mayans continued long after the Classic era. However, after the Classic period ended, the Mayan writing system began to gradually disappear. The literati who knew how to write the Mayan script were becoming fewer, and while there were still city states that ruled parts of the Mayan world, most Mayans were gradually becoming part of a decentralized culture where they lived in villages and small towns deep in the tropical forests of southern Mexico and various parts of Central America. While the spoken Mayan language has survived to this day, the writing system had long disappeared. Slowly but surely, the Mayans are rediscovering their ancient heritage, and archaeologists as well as historians are still working to piece together the history of the Mayan peoples through the written language that is providing an ever more complete chronicle of who they were.

The Aztec Written Language

By Daniel Nardini

The Aztecs more than any other indigenous group in present-day Mexico is the best known and studied. Holding control of what is now central Mexico, the Aztecs built an impressive empire both feared and respected by other Native Amerindian peoples. The Aztecs built impressive cities (of which Tenochtitlan the Aztec capital is the best known one. But did you know that other related Nahua peoples, whom the Aztecs were just one group, also built impressive cities like Texcoco, Tlacopan, and Tlatelolco?), a vast road network, and an equally impressive trade network. The Aztecs were advanced in architecture, agriculture, and art. This vast and complex empire had a writing system which helped the Aztecs communicate over their territories as well as with those whom they had an alliance with.

One important thing about the written language is that it is more of a pictogram language than a fully developed writing system with consonants, nouns, verbs, and other grammatical rules that cannot be found in the Aztec written language. Here is the difference between Mayan on the one hand and Aztec on the other. In the Mayan written language, there is a grammatical equivalent where a sentence can be formed like, "the king walked yesterday from the main pyramid to the periphery of the city." This is not really possible in the Aztec written language. In the Aztec pictograms, one will see an image of a king walking to

The Mixtec Written Language

We know a great deal about the Mayans and Aztecs, but we know little about the Mixtecs. Like the Mayans, the Mixtecs are a very ancient peoples. They, their language and culture had developed for thousands of years in central-southern Mexico along the Pacific coast and hinterland. There is archaeological evidence they had existed there since at least 1500 BCE (Before the Common Era). Like the Mayans, they built powerful city states. Most of the Mixtecs were unified for a time under the rule of their great military leader named Lord Eight Deer Jaguar Claw in the 11th Century CE (Common Era). We know this because we have specially made books called codices (made from deer hides) that have been preserved throughout the centuries despite Spanish rule which came later. Unlike the Aztecs, the Spanish had serious problems conquering the Mixtecs. It took them years, and even then there were frequent rebellions.

Unlike most indigenous peoples that the Spanish had conquered, The Spanish allowed the Mixtecs to keep their local ruling elites who administered the peoples of each city state. These local Mixtec ruling elites in turn answered to the Spanish rulers who answered to the Spanish Crown. The Spanish allowed the Mixtecs to keep their traditions, their governing organization, and some sovereignty. This was not out of leniency or mercy, but a pragmatic tactic of Spanish colonial rule. Although the Spanish church authorities destroyed many Mixtec codices as "works of the devil," many have managed to survive and give us some information about the history and cultural values of the Mixtecs. Like the Aztec written language, the Mixtec written language was one of pictograms that the readers of the written language knew what actions were happening because that interpretation had been passed down from generation to generation. Like all other Mesoamerican peoples, the Mixtecs were eventually forced to write in the Latin script, but fortunately there are enough transliterations between the Mixtec written language and the Latin some place. Only the scholars and scribes who know the context can tell what is happening. Yet this helped to provide information that would have not existed if the language was not written down at all.

Even when the Spanish and their Native Amerindian allies had destroyed the Aztec Empire in 1521, enough Aztec scholars and scribes survived to be able to transliterate the pictograms into Spanish so future scholars can read the Aztec pictograms and have an idea what the meaning of them are. Since the Nahuatl language, the mother tongue of the Aztecs and other Nahua peoples, still exists, it is possible for archaeologists and anthropologists to be able to know what earlier records that have been discovered and may be discovered have recorded. One thing that the written Aztec language might be useful for is if any of the tombs of the Aztec kings are ever discovered. Since we know the written language, we may someday discover an Aztec king's tomb lost for centuries.

Des Plaines Man Charged with Possession of AI Generated Child Pornography and Possession of Child Sexual Abuse Material

A 44-year-old Des Plaines Man has been charged with possession of AI generated child sexual abuse material and possession of child sexual abuse material (CSAM) following an investigation by Cook County Sheriff's Police, Sheriff Thomas J. Dart announced last week. On Feb. 27, the Sheriff's Police Internet Crimes Against Children Unit started an investigation based on tips from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) about suspected CSAM that had been downloaded from the internet and uploaded to a cloud-based service. Investigators confirmed that the uploaded files contained sexually explicit images of children and then obtained search warrants for the electronic and internet service providers.

They found the IP address used to upload the files traced to a residence in the 1400 block of East Oakton Street in Des Plaines, where Adam Bakker lived.

On Sept. 1, investigators executed a search warrant at the home and took a desktop computer and Bakker into custody. After issuing Bakker his Miranda Warning, investigators learned that he downloaded child pornography and used AI to alter some of those images. A forensic search of Bakker's desktop computer found more than 70 files of CSAM, including AI generated images. On Sept. 2, the Cook County State's Attorney's Office approved one felony count of obscene depiction of a purported child and a felony count of possession of child sexual abuse material against Bakker. On Sept. 3, he was ordered to Cook County Jail custody following his first appearance hearing at the Skokie Courthouse. The public is reminded that defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

PNCC Organizará una Feria para la Restitución de Licencias de Conducir

Pilsen Neighbors Community Council (PNCC) organizará su próxima 15ava Feria para la Reinstación de la Licencia de Conducir (DLRD) el sábado, 12 de septiembre del 2026, en Malcolm X College, de 9:00 a.m. a 3:00 p.m. El evento ofrece a los residentes del Condado de Cook asistencia legal gratuita para ayudarlos a restaurar las licencias de conducir de Illinois suspendidas o revocadas. DLRE conecta a los participantes con abogados voluntarios que explican porque se suspenden o revocan los privilegios de conducir y declaran claramente los pasos para resolver las suspensiones y calificar para su reinstalación. Manejar con una licencia suspendida o revocada es una ofensa criminal en Illinois y a menudo conlleva una mayor intervención judicial y multas y obstáculos para el empleo. La Feria de Restitución de Licencias de Conducir es posible gracias a afiliaciones con el Secretario de Estado de Illinois, la Oficina del Defensor Público del Condado de Cook, el Secretario del Condado de Cook, el Tribunal de Circuito del Condado de Cook, Malcolm X College y otros. script that the earlier Mixtec written language can be read. Today, the Mixtecs are very well known for their intricate weaving and textiles, their gold and silver metallurgy, and their woodcarving and ceramics. There are an estimated 500,000 Mixtecs today with most communities living in the Mexican states of Oaxaca, Puebla and Guerrero. There are some Mixtecs living in the larger Mexican communities in the United States. There are many Mixtec agricultural communities in California's Ventura County, Santa Maria and Salinas, and in the San Joaquin Valley. There are

PNCC to Host Driver's License Reinstatement Expo

Pilsen Neighbors Community Council (PNCC), will host its upcoming 15th Driver's License Reinstatement Expo (DLRE) on Saturday, September 12, 2026, at Malcolm X College from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm. The event provides Cook County residents with free legal assistance to help restore suspended or revoked Illinois driver's licenses. The DLRE connects participants with volunteer attorneys who explain why driving privileges were suspended or revoked and outline clear steps to resolve holds and qualify for reinstatement. Driving on a suspended or revoked license is a criminal offense in Illinois and often results in deeper court involvement, fines, and barriers to employment. The Driver's License Reinstatement Expo is made possible through partnerships with the Illinois Secretary of State, the Cook County Public Defender's Office, Cook County Clerk, Cook County Circuit Court, Malcolm X College, and others. To register for the expo, visit www.pilsenneighbors.org/dlre

El Rep. García Exige Respuestas al Departamento de Educación, ya que Cerca de 10 Millones de Usuarios de Préstamos Estudiantiles no Pagan

El Congresista Jesús “Chuy” García (IL-04) dirigió a 27 de sus colegas en una carta a la Secretaria de Educación Linda McMahon pidiendo ofrezca respuestas y transparencia sobre la creciente crisis de falta de pago de préstamos estudiantiles federales ya que cerca de un récord de 10 millones de prestatarios no pagan durante la Administración Trump. Los miembros advierten que mientras millones de estadounidenses luchan por mantener sus pagos de préstamos estudiantiles mientras enfrentan los elevados costos de la vivienda, comida, cuidado de salud y otras necesidades básicas, el Departamento de Educación bajo el liderazgo del Secretario McMahon, ha fallado en proteger a los prestamistas mientras se enfoca en dismantlar al Departamento y hacer grandes cambios al sistema federal de préstamos estudiantiles. “Los miembros también dejaron oír su preocupación sobre los cambios a las opciones de repago federal promulgadas bajo H.R.1. Se están eliminando gradualmente varios planes de pago existentes, y existe la preocupación de que estos cambios puedan dar lugar a cuotas mensuales más elevadas o reducir el acceso a opciones de pago asequibles para algunos prestatarios. Los miembros subrayaron que el incumplimiento de pago puede acarrear consecuencias graves y duraderas para los prestatarios, tales como daños en el historial crediticio, embargo de salarios, retención de devoluciones de impuestos y obstáculos para acceder a la propiedad de una vivienda y a la movilidad económica.

Rep. García demanding Answers from Education Department as Nearly 10M Student Loan Borrowers Face Default

Congressman Jesús “Chuy” García (IL-04) led 27 of his colleagues in a letter to Education Secretary Linda McMahon demanding she provide answers and transparency about the growing federal student loan default crisis as nearly a record of 10 million borrowers enter default under the Trump Administration. The members warn that as millions of Americans struggle to keep up with student loan payments while also facing the rising costs of housing, food, healthcare and other basic necessities, the Department of Education, under Secretary McMahon’s leadership, has failed to protect borrowers as she focuses on dismantling the Department and undertaking big changes to the federal student loan system. The members also raised concerns about changes to federal repayment options enacted under H.R. 1. Several existing repayment plans are being phased out and they worry that these changes could result in higher monthly payments or reduce access to affordable repayment options for some borrowers. The Members emphasized that default can have serious and long lasting consequences for borrowers, including damaged credit, wage garnishment, seizure of tax refunds, and barriers to homeownership and economic mobility.
